Israel Moves To Ease Crisis

Allies Give Reds Sharp Reminder

Benson Declares Cattle Industry Against Supports

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson capped a two-day demonstration of cattle growers clamoring for price props by asserting today that the nation's livestock industry is "overwhelmingly opposed" to rigid supports.

Benson told newsmen he based the statement on a stack of letters and telegrams expressing opposition to price supports, which were urged by a "cattlemen's caravan" sponsored by the National Farmers Union.

The union's general counsel is Charles F. Brannan, who was secretary of agriculture under President Truman.

Delegation Offers No Plan

Some of those who wrote or telegraphed Benson declared that the 350-man delegation which descended on Washington yesterday did not speak for the rank and file of the cattle industry. A man in Illinois said he could bring several hundred farmers to Washington to oppose federal supports if that were desirable.

Benson told reporters that the Washington delegation "didn't present a plan" in its demand for government emergency aid to take cattle growers off the hook in the squeeze between high feed costs and falling livestock prices.

"They just said they wanted price supports under cattle," he said.

"National Scandal," Kerr Says

Earlier Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) touched off an uproar of cowboy yells and stomping at a mass meeting of the visiting stockmen by saying that the Eisenhower administration's attitude toward sagging cattle prices is a "national scandal."

During a busy day, Benson scoffed at any idea he might resign and contended that most of the problems plaguing cattlemen are already on the way to solution.

Benson quoted the National Livestock Producers Assn. as saying it considers beef price supports "impractical . . . unworkable . . . not in the best interest of producers or consumers."

Passing Of Parley Target Date Noted By Dean At Talks

PAMNUNJOM, Wednesday, Oct. 28 (AP) — The third round of preliminary talks to arrange a Korean peace conference opened today with a sharp reminder from the Allies that this was the day on which the conference itself was supposed to begin under armistice terms.

The preliminary meeting already is deadlocked over Communist insistence on seating neutrals at the peace table.

U. S. envoy Arthur Dean who had warned yesterday that Red insistence on neutrals might wreck the peace conference prospects, arrived a few minutes early.

When the North Korean and Chinese Communist delegates seated themselves, he asked for a detailed statement they had promised, in answer to Dean's charges that the Reds originally insisted the peace conference be confined to belligerents.

"I would like to note that today is Oct. 28," Dean said, "the day on which the political (peace) conference was supposed to have convened."

After Tuesday's meeting Dean still appeared optimistic that differences could be composed so that the conference could be held.

He emerged from a fruitless session of 2 hours and 15 minutes and told newsmen that if the Communists "persist in their all-or-nothing attitude, the onus of not having a political (peace) conference will be squarely on their shoulders."

Dean added, however, that he still thought the Reds wanted a conference and it was too early in the preliminary discussions to draw conclusions.

The deadlock in the preliminary talks for arranging a peace conference was matched on the armistice front.

The differences between the U.N. and Communist positions on interviewing prisoners refusing to go home were so wide that Indian sources said large-scale explanations to anti-Red captives may never start up again.

Communist Czech and Polish members of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission insist that North Korean anti-Reds be forced to listen to persuasion talks. India, Switzerland and Sweden, the other commission members, oppose force.

Threat Of Deadly Fog Due To Rain Fails To Appear

HORSE CAVE, Ky., Oct. 27 (AP)—Residents here breathed easier today when rain failed to produce the deadly fog expected from water's reaction on a chemical seeping from storage tanks on a railroad siding.

Mayor L. H. Vinson said the town was in no immediate danger as most of the chemical—arsenic trichloride—on the ground had neutralized before the rain.

The chemical, used to make deadly Lewiste gas, had corroded the tanks and previously was seeping slowly into the ground, endangering the water supply of Horse Cave's 2,000 citizens.

Although the water supply was still safe, Mayor Vinson said there remained the danger of further seepage of the chemical, stored here since it was bought from the Army three years ago.

The firm which bought the chemical entered bankruptcy and officials here have been unable to dispose of the acid.

U. S. Won't Trim Europe Forces

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson, seconded by Secretary of State Dulles, said today the United States has no immediate plans for withdrawing troops from Western Europe.

On the heels of their statements, France's deputy foreign minister, Maruice Schumann, announced here that he is "definitely satisfied" that America's contribution to the European defense line will not be weakened.

Doubts arose in France and other free nations of Europe last week after Wilson commented publicly that development of new weapons would permit a reduction of U.S. troops in Europe "in the long run."

"I didn't intend to create as much international discussion as I did," Wilson said at a news conference today. "We have no immediate plans for taking troops out of Europe." He added that he and Dulles saw eye-to-eye on the question.

At a news conference of his own, the secretary of state took note of what he called "quite a spate of rumors" that the United States intended to reduce its forces in Europe. He added he was glad to reiterate that it was not so.

Italy's Biggest River Nearing Flood Level

ROME, Oct. 27 (AP) — The Po, Italy's biggest river, was rising an inch an hour toward flood level tonight. Its swollen tributaries already had flooded miles of farmlands and a score of hamlets.

All Italy was sodden as rains continued unbroken through the fourth day of mounting tragedy.

The death toll already stood at 72 — 55 in Calabria in the south and 17 in the north.

Rome's Tiber flooded outskirts of the capital, driving 100 families from their homes. Roads were cut and 4,000 acres of rich farmland were under water in the Pontine area between Rome and Naples.

Father Of Victim Tells Grand Jury Of Kidnap, Killing

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 27 (AP)—A federal grand jury today heard a grim multimillionaire tell his story of the kidnaping and merciless slaying of his 6-year-old son, Bobby Greenlease.

The father, Robert C. Greenlease, 71, was the first witness as the government presented evidence it hopes will bring death to two confessed kidnap-killers, Carl Austin Hall, 34, and his girl friend, Mrs. Bonnie Heady.

There was hope, too, that some light might be shed on the missing half of the $600,000 ransom paid even through his son lay in a shallow grave in Mrs. Heady's flower garden in St. Joseph, Mo.

Shoulders To Testify

Police Lt. Louis Shoulders of St. Louis, who arrested Hall and later resigned in the furor caused by an investigation of his handling of the case, was here to testify. Earlier he had said he would not answer questions before the jury because he would not identify informants who made possible the arrest of Hall and Mrs. Heady, and the recovery of almost $300,000 of the ransom money on Oct. 7.

Greenlease was before the jury about 30 minutes and told reporters only that he "had identified some things." He did not go into details of the story of Mrs. Heady's duping the nuns at Bobby's private school, or how the child was taken to a suburban area and shot to death as he struggled to escape. That was on Sept. 28, six days before the $600,000 ransom was thrown over a bridge approach where Hall picked it up.

Four Others Testify

Four other witnesses went before the jury before it recessed for lunch. They were Eugene Pond, Kansas City chief of detectives; Willard Creech, the cab driver who drove Mrs. Heady to and from Bobby's school and a parking lot where Hall waited; the nun who released Bobby from the school, and an unidentified FBI agent.

France Loans U. S. Subs

PARIS, Oct. 27 (AP)—France has loaned the United States two pocket submarines complete with two-man crews, the French Navy said today.

The U. S. Navy is using them in experiments at San Diego, Calif., aimed at perfecting coastal and harbor defenses, the French said.

Carney Envisions Armada Of Atom-Powered Warships

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 27 (AP)—Adm. Robert B. Carney, reporting tonight that first tests of an atomic engine for a submarine have exceeded expectations, envisaged a whole fleet of nuclear powered warships, including carriers and battleships.

In an address prepared for the Military Order of The World Wars, the chief of naval operations spoke of the advantages of a fleet using nuclear energy for power at a time when oil supplies may be scarce or inaccessible.

"Obviously," said Carney, it would be folly for this country to wait until it is driven to the development of nuclear fuels."

The Navy now is building two submarines with atomic power plants, but Defense Secretary Wilson has shelved the plan to build an experimental atomic power plant for a big aircraft carrier. He told a news conference in June that while he approved the submarine program, construction now of a nuclear powered flattop "isn't a practical and efficient thing to do."

The two submersibles now being built are the Nautilus and Sea Wolf. A land-based copy of the Nautilus' engine has been under test for some months at an Idaho laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Of the two boats, Carney said: "They are the Navy's model T's of the atomic age. The new submarine engine has been tested over an extended period and I can only say, it is better than our expectations. Now we must get on to fine custom jobs. Anybody knows that if you can power a submarine with atoms, you can power any kind of a ship, including of course the aircraft carrier and the guided missile ship."

Underclothing Found In Hunt For Schoolgirl

Stained Garments Same Size As Worn By Evelyn Hartley

LA CROSSE, Wis., Oct. 27 (AP)—Discovery of feminine underclothing similar to that worn by missing baby sitter Evelyn Hartley was announced tonight by Dist. Atty. John Bosshard, directing the search for the 15-year-old girl who disappeared Saturday night.

Bosshard said the underclothing, a brassiere and panties, were stained. He said they had been shown to the girl's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Hartley and that the parents commented, "'She wore things like that.'" Bosshard added that the underclothing was the size worn by Miss Hartley.

Found Along Railroad

The two items, Bosshard said, have been taken to State Crime Laboratory at Madison for analysis to determine whether the stains are blood. He said the two items were found about noon today on the Burlington Railroad right of way below a highway overhead two miles southeast of La Crosse.

The area, Bosshard said, had been searched yesterday but nothing was found. Another search today disclosed the underclothing in a "conspicuous place."

"It looked like they might have been thrown from a car and blown under the bridge," Bosshard said.

Bosshard revealed also that a "rather large stain of blood" had been found on Highway 35, 14 miles south of La Crosse. He said the crime laboratory was testing the blood but that no results had been obtained. The bloodstain was discovered about 12 miles further south of La Crosse than the underclothing and along the same highway.

Auto Returned To Owner

Bosshard said that a mysterious automobile reported in some quarter to have contained bloodstains did not, and that it had been returned to its owner.

Blood stains were found Saturday night on the grounds of the home of Vitto Rasmusen, whose 20-month-old baby Evelyn was tending so the Rasmusen's could attend a football game. Additional blood and what was believed to be fragments of the red slacks the girl was wearing were found on the basement window well of a neighbor's home.

Railway Baggage Fee Authorized

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized a large group of railroads to charge passengers 25 cents for each piece of hand luggage checked and 50 cents for each trunk.

Reversing a preliminary decision made in May, the commission voted 8-2 to allow the baggage checking charges as a means of reducing revenue losses on passenger trains.

The charges were authorized for railroads operating in the south, the central part of the country and in the east exclusive of New England.

In addition to the railroads operating in the South, the order covers these carriers operating in Eastern and Central territory:

Army, Navy Manpower Cut Seen Next Year

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP) —Assistant Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah said today that Army and Navy manpower may be cut next year and that the Air Force will remain at approximately its present strength.

He made the statement at a Pentagon news conference in which he joined Secretary of Defense Wilson. Wilson emphasized that the present objective is to maintain the full combat effectiveness of the Army and the Navy and to increase the fighting power of the Air Force in the next fiscal year.

Hannah said in reply to a question that the Air Force "thinks" it can man 127 wings with 970,000 officers and men by June 30, 1955.

Dulles Advocates Early Five-Power Talks On Trieste

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles disclosed today he favors convening a five-power conference as soon as possible to discuss the rival claims of Italy and Yugoslavia to the Trieste territory.

He also indicated significantly that he would like to see the conference take place before all the American and British occupation troops pull out of Zone A of the territory.

The secretary's remarks seemed to place the United States to some extent on Yugoslavia's side in the bitter dispute over the Adriatic port area.

Italy Might Balk

The Italian government has stated repeatedly that it will refuse to join the United States, Britain, France and Yugoslavia in any conference until it has military and civil control of Zone A.

Dulles said at a news conference that the sooner a five-power parley is held the better it will be for Western planes for defending southern Europe against possible Communist attack.

Western strategists believe that no solid defense can be built until Italy and Yugoslavia resolve their territorial quarrel.

In calling for an early meeting, Dulles observed that it would take considerable time to complete the withdrawal of some 7,000 Anglo-American troops now in Zone A.

No Backdown Implied

In view of this, a five-power conference could very well begin before the zone is handed over to Italy, as Britain and the United States promised in a decision announced Oct. 8.

Nowhere did Dulles imply that the United States and Britain were backing down in their determination to give Italy full administrative authority in Zone A. His words, however, made clear the two governments will move cautiously in pulling out their forces.

Indians Doubt POW Talks To Be Resumed

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, Oct. 28 (AP) — Indian officers expressed doubts yesterday that "explanations" for anti-Communist prisoners ever would begin again on a large scale.

The deadlocked Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission was meeting again today in an atmosphere of paralysis and frustration, but no hope was held out by the Indian chairman that any solution will come out of the session, described as routine.

So far, no way has been found to break the impasse caused by the violent refusal of anti-Communist North Korean prisoners to face Red interviewers, and the Communist demand that they be interviewed by force if necessary.

Poland Demands Ship

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 27 (AP) — Warsaw radio said today Poland in a new note to the United States has demanded that Washington take immediate steps to release the Polish ship Praca and crew which were seized by a Nationalist Chinese gunboat Oct. 4.

Overly-Careful Worker Winds Up With Broken Leg

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP) — Construction worker Ellis Bunce has been extra careful ever since a piece of equipment fell on him and broke both arms and legs.

So the cautious, 44-year-old Bunce was keeping an eye on a piece of steel being swung over his head on a job today.

He was being so careful about the swinging steel he didn't notice an eight-inch hole. He stepped into it. Broke his leg.

GOP Legislators Expect President To Consult Them

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said today he expects Republican congressional leaders to sit in with President Eisenhower and Cabinet members for final decisions on the administration's new legislative program.

Knowland, Senate Republican chieftain, said in an interview he and other leaders expect to be consulted fully in advance on important domestic and foreign issues to be laid before Congress by Eisenhower in his State of the Union message.

Conferences probably will be held late next month or early in December, the Californian added.

Legislators generally saw in these proposed sessions an extension of Eisenhower's efforts to cooperate with Congress. The President called in party leaders last year before drafting his program, a course that hadn't been followed too often by his Democratic predecessors.

"I think there is going to be team work between the President and Congress and these conferences will help solidify it," Knowland said.

Last Of Fresh Milk Is Rationed To New Yorkers

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP) — New York, beleaguered by a two-day milk strike, was all but out of fresh milk today. Mothers by the thousands stormed depots for a final ration for their babies.

Restaurants scratched milk from their menus. Store coolers were empty of it in New York, Long Island, Westchester County and northern New Jersey. Women posed as pregnant to get it.

An estimated 12 million people were affected. They normally use more than five million quarts a day.

Bright Spot In Picture

However, a bright spot in the picture was a large supply of powdered and evaporated milk in stores.

Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri was expected to step in at any moment to try to break a wages-hours deadlock between 13,000 striking AFL teamsters and 200 milk firms. The strikers deliver milk to homes and stores, or work in plants that process it.

The strike was costing dairymen $250,000 a day.

In Trenton, N. J., Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll demanded maximum pressure from his state mediators to end the strike and told a reporter:

"Personally, I think this stalemate is an outrage. I'm indignant about this."

Scattered Disorders

There were scattered disorders in Jersey as some non-union dairies tried to move milk.

Negotiations between the teamsters and the companies were tightly deadlocked, although talks were still going on. The union asked a $15 increase in wages that now range from $82 to $125 a week, plus a 5-hour reduction in the 40-hour week.

Hospitals and schools are exempt from the strike.

Hillbilly Music, Flickering TV Induce Epileptic Attacks

ATLANTA, Oct. 27 (AP) — Hillbilly and other music — as well as poorly-working television sets—can perhaps bring on attacks of certain sufferers from epilpsy, the Southern Medical Assn. was told today.

Dr. Samuel C. Little of the Medical College of Alabama said he believes an attack in one of his patients was induced by listening to a "hill-billy" jam session.

And he declared that another physician, Dr. S. Livingston, "has recently described three patients whose seizures appeared to be precipitated by watching television."

Concerning the latter, Dr. Little told the SMA's 47th annual meeting:

"The actual precipitating factor in these cases was presumed to be the flickering of the television screen during a period of receiver malfunction."

He said cases of presumed music-induced epilepsy — called "musciogenic" — have been reported by two other researchers. And, while scientific proof remains to be established, he added, it seems possible that music can "trigger" an epileptic seizure in certain cases, because it's already known that "hallucinations" of music can do so.

There's plenty of proof, he said, that light—especially a flickering light — can bring on attacks in certain epileptics. For example, flickering light "caused by driving past a line of trees at sunset or by watching the reflection of the sun on sea-waves."

The doctor explained that this "photogenic epilepsy" is apparently due to a particularly strong sensitivity to light in the brain cells of certain epileptics, who, like all sufferers from the ailment, already have a nervous system disorder.

Jewish Nation Offers To Halt River Project

Pledges Cooperation With U. N. In Effort To End Controversy

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—Israel unexpectedly offered today to suspend work on its Jordan River hydroelectric project and promised full cooperation with the Security Council in its effort to settle the issue. Syria complains the project diverts water from Syrian farms.

The Israel move came shortly after the U.N. truce supervisor in Palestine, Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike, warned the Council that serious trouble was ahead in Palestine unless cool heads prevailed and the 1949 armistice agreements are strictly followed.

Bennike said the high fever mark in the situation was the Israeli raid on Kibya village, in Jordan. The Mixed Armistice Commission reported this was "cold-blooded murder" of more than 50 Arabs by a half battalion of regular Israeli troops.

Tension At Breaking Point

"They indicated that tension had increased to breaking point, either locally, in a particular area, or perhaps generally between the two countries (Jordan and Israel)," Bennike said. When the breaking point is reached, he added, "temptation to resort to force may prevail over wise counsels and restraint."

Ambassador Abba Eban of Israel annouced Israel would suspend work on the power project as the Security Council met for the second time today to debate a complaint against it by Syria. Bennike already had asked Israel twice to stop the work pending a settlement, but Eban's statement was the first sign Israel would do so.

Report Refers To Raids

Bennike took 58 minutes to read his report. It was filled with official comments about various raids by Arabs and Jews on each other's territory along the 400-mile frontier.

Bennike devoted much of his report to the Kibya incident which touched off debate in the Security Council on the frontier unrest. The United States, Britain and France demanded quick Council consideration of the situation. The United States furthermore, cut off virtually all economic aid to Israel because that country had refused to comply with Bennike's request to stop work on the Jordan River project.

USSR Agreeable To Big 4 Meeting

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP) — Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky said today the Soviet Union is agreeable to a meeting of chiefs of state of the big powers. But he objected to any test of Soviet sincerity and good intentions as a preliminary step to this meeting.

At a meeting of the U.N. Correspondents Assn., Vishinsky was asked about the prospects of results from a face-to-face meeting of the chiefs of state.

"There is no special problem in this," Vishinsky said in reply." As you know there is no question which cannot be solved on a basis of mutual interest and respect and without a preliminary test of the sincerity and good intentions of the Soviet Union."

Vishinsky referred specifically to President Eisenhower's speech last April in which the President said the United States wanted proof of Russian good intentions and sincerity before undertaking high level negotiations as Prime Minister Churchill has proposed.

Exploding Manholes Halt Detroit Traffic

DETROIT, Oct. 27 (AP)—Exploding manholes spouting geysers of flames interrupted telephone communications and halted traffic in downtown Detroit today.

Gas explosions in the big sewer under Woodward avenue, Detroit's main thoroughfare, blasted 100-pound manhole covers 20 feet in the air.

Pedestrians were startled by the explosions that cut off police and fire department communications. Traffic in a 32-block area was stopped.

Police said it was possible gas may have leaked into the sewer.

"Obviously," said Carney, it would be folly for this country to wait until it is driven to the development of nuclear fuels."

The Navy now is building two submarines with atomic power plants, but Defense Secretary Wilson has shelved the plan to build an experimental atomic power plant for a big aircraft carrier. He told a news conference in June that while he approved the submarine program, construction now of a nuclear powered flattop "isn't a practical and efficient thing to do."

The two submersibles now being built are the Nautilus and Sea Wolf. A land-based copy of the Nautilus' engine has been under test for some months at an Idaho laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Of the two boats, Carney said: "They are the Navy's model T's of the atomic age. The new submarine engine has been tested over an extended period and I can only say, it is better than our expectations. Now we must get on to fine custom jobs. Anybody knows that if you can power a submarine with atoms, you can power any kind of a ship, including of course the aircraft carrier and the guided missile ship."

Underclothing Found In Hunt For Schoolgirl

Stained Garments Same Size As Worn By Evelyn Hartley

LA CROSSE, Wis., Oct. 27 (AP)—Discovery of feminine underclothing similar to that worn by missing baby sitter Evelyn Hartley was announced tonight by Dist. Atty. John Bosshard, directing the search for the 15-year-old girl who disappeared Saturday night.

Bosshard said the underclothing, a brassiere and panties, were stained. He said they had been shown to the girl's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Hartley and that the parents commented, "'She wore things like that.'" Bosshard added that the underclothing was the size worn by Miss Hartley.

Found Along Railroad

The two items, Bosshard said, have been taken to State Crime Laboratory at Madison for analysis to determine whether the stains are blood. He said the two items were found about noon today on the Burlington Railroad right of way below a highway overhead two miles southeast of La Crosse.

The area, Bosshard said, had been searched yesterday but nothing was found. Another search today disclosed the underclothing in a "conspicuous place."

"It looked like they might have been thrown from a car and blown under the bridge," Bosshard said.

Bosshard revealed also that a "rather large stain of blood" had been found on Highway 35, 14 miles south of La Crosse. He said the crime laboratory was testing the blood but that no results had been obtained. The bloodstain was discovered about 12 miles further south of La Crosse than the underclothing and along the same highway.

Auto Returned To Owner

Bosshard said that a mysterious automobile reported in some quarter to have contained bloodstains did not, and that it had been returned to its owner.

Blood stains were found Saturday night on the grounds of the home of Vitto Rasmusen, whose 20-month-old baby Evelyn was tending so the Rasmusen's could attend a football game. Additional blood and what was believed to be fragments of the red slacks the girl was wearing were found on the basement window well of a neighbor's home.

Railway Baggage Fee Authorized

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized a large group of railroads to charge passengers 25 cents for each piece of hand luggage checked and 50 cents for each trunk.

Reversing a preliminary decision made in May, the commission voted 8-2 to allow the baggage checking charges as a means of reducing revenue losses on passenger trains.

The charges were authorized for railroads operating in the south, the central part of the country and in the east exclusive of New England.

In addition to the railroads operating in the South, the order covers these carriers operating in Eastern and Central territory:

Army, Navy Manpower Cut Seen Next Year

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP) —Assistant Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah said today that Army and Navy manpower may be cut next year and that the Air Force will remain at approximately its present strength.

He made the statement at a Pentagon news conference in which he joined Secretary of Defense Wilson. Wilson emphasized that the present objective is to maintain the full combat effectiveness of the Army and the Navy and to increase the fighting power of the Air Force in the next fiscal year.

Hannah said in reply to a question that the Air Force "thinks" it can man 127 wings with 970,000 officers and men by June 30, 1955.

Couldn't Wait For Ship To Dock

Without waiting for his destroyer to be tied up on return from Korea, Lt. Benjamin S. Dowd, Jr., Brighton, Mass., leans over the rail for a kiss and a look at his baby son held by his wife. Dulles Advocates Early Five-Power Talks On Trieste

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles disclosed today he favors convening a five-power conference as soon as possible to discuss the rival claims of Italy and Yugoslavia to the Trieste territory.

He also indicated significantly that he would like to see the conference take place before all the American and British occupation troops pull out of Zone A of the territory.

The secretary's remarks seemed to place the United States to some extent on Yugoslavia's side in the bitter dispute over the Adriatic port area.

Italy Might Balk

The Italian government has stated repeatedly that it will refuse to join the United States, Britain, France and Yugoslavia in any conference until it has military and civil control of Zone A.

Dulles said at a news conference that the sooner a five-power parley is held the better it will be for Western plans for defending southern Europe against possible Communist attack.

Western strategists believe that no solid defense can be built until Italy and Yugoslavia resolve their territorial quarrel.

In calling for an early meeting, Dulles observed that it would take considerable time to complete the withdrawal of some 7,000 Anglo-American troops now in Zone A.

No Backdown Implied

In view of this, a five-power conference could very well begin before the zone is handed over to Italy, as Britain and the United States promised in a decision announced Oct. 8.

Nowhere did Dulles imply that the United States and Britain were backing down in their determination to give Italy full administrative authority in Zone A. His words, however, made clear the two governments will move cautiously in pulling out their forces.

Indians Doubt POW Talks To Be Resumed

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, Oct. 28 (AP) — Indian officers expressed doubts yesterday that "explanations" for anti-Communist prisoners ever would begin again on a large scale.

The deadlocked Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission was meeting again today in an atmosphere of paralysis and frustration, but no hope was held out by the Indian chairman that any solution will come out of the session, described as routine.

So far, no way has been found to break the impasse caused by the violent refusal of anti-Communist North Korean prisoners to face Red interviewers, and the Communist demand that they be interviewed by force if necessary.

Poland Demands Ship

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 27 (AP) — Warsaw radio said today Poland in a new note to the United States has demanded that Washington take immediate steps to release the Polish ship Praca and crew which were seized by a Nationalist Chinese gunboat Oct. 4.

Overly-Careful Worker Winds Up With Broken Leg

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP) — Construction worker Ellis Bunce has been extra careful ever since a piece of equipment fell on him and broke both arms and legs.

So the cautious, 44-year-old Bunce was keeping an eye on a piece of steel being swung over his head on a job today.

He was being so careful about the swinging steel he didn't notice an eight-inch hole. He stepped into it. Broke his leg.

GOP Legislators Expect President To Consult Them

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said today he expects Republican congressional leaders to sit in with President Eisenhower and Cabinet members for final decisions on the administration's new legislative program.

Knowland, Senate Republican chieftain, said in an interview he and other leaders expect to be consulted fully in advance on important domestic and foreign issues to be laid before Congress by Eisenhower in his State of the Union message.

Conferences probably will be held late next month or early in December, the Californian added.

Legislators generally saw in these proposed sessions an extension of Eisenhower's efforts to cooperate with Congress. The President called in party leaders last year before drafting his program, a course that hadn't been followed too often by his Democratic predecessors.

"I think there is going to be team work between the President and Congress and these conferences will help solidify it," Knowland said.

Last Of Fresh Milk Is Rationed To New Yorkers

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP) — New York, beleaguered by a two-day milk strike, was all but out of fresh milk today. Mothers by the thousands stormed depots for a final ration for their babies.

Restaurants scratched milk from their menus. Store coolers were empty of it in New York, Long Island, Westchester County and northern New Jersey. Women posed as pregnant to get it.

An estimated 12 million people were affected. They normally use more than five million quarts a day.

Bright Spot In Picture

However, a bright spot in the picture was a large supply of powdered and evaporated milk in stores.

Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri was expected to step in at any moment to try to break a wages-hours deadlock between 13,000 striking AFL teamsters and 200 milk firms. The strikers deliver milk to homes and stores, or work in plants that process it.

The strike was costing dairymen $250,000 a day.

In Trenton, N. J., Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll demanded maximum pressure from his state mediators to end the strike and told a reporter:

Scattered Disorders

There were scattered disorders in Jersey as some non-union dairies tried to move milk.

Negotiations between the teamsters and the companies were tightly deadlocked, although talks were still going on. The union asked a $15 increase in wages that now range from $82 to $125 a week, plus a 5-hour reduction in the 40-hour week.

Hospitals and schools are exempt from the strike.

Hillbilly Music, Flickering TV Induce Epileptic Attacks

ATLANTA, Oct. 27 (AP) — Hillbilly and other music — as well as poorly-working television sets—can perhaps bring on attacks of certain sufferers from epilpsy, the Southern Medical Assn. was told today.

Dr. Samuel C. Little of the Medical College of Alabama said he believes an attack in one of his patients was induced by listening to a "hill-billy" jam session.

And he declared that another physician, Dr. S. Livingston, "has recently described three patients whose seizures appeared to be precipitated by watching television."

Concerning the latter, Dr. Little told the SMA's 47th annual meeting:

"The actual precipitating factor in these cases was presumed to be the flickering of the television screen during a period of receiver malfunction."

He said cases of presumed music-induced epilepsy — called "musciogenic" — have been reported by two other researchers. And, while scientific proof remains to be established, he added, it seems possible that music can "trigger" an epileptic seizure in certain cases, because it's already known that "hallucinations" of music can do so.

There's plenty of proof, he said, that light—especially a flickering light — can bring on attacks in certain epileptics. For example, flickering light "caused by driving past a line of trees at sunset or by watching the reflection of the sun on sea-waves."

The doctor explained that this "photogenic epilepsy" is apparently due to a particularly strong sensitivity to light in the brain cells of certain epileptics, who, like all sufferers from the ailment, already have a nervous system disorder.

Jewish Nation Offers To Halt River Project

Pledges Cooperation With U. N. In Effort To End Controversy

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—Israel unexpectedly offered today to suspend work on its Jordan River hydroelectric project and promised full cooperation with the Security Council in its effort to settle the issue. Syria complains the project diverts water from Syrian farms.

The Israel move came shortly after the U.N. truce supervisor in Palestine, Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike, warned the Council that serious trouble was ahead in Palestine unless cool heads prevailed and the 1949 armistice agreements are strictly followed.

Bennike said the high fever mark in the situation was the Israeli raid on Kibya village, in Jordan. The Mixed Armistice Commission reported this was "cold-blooded murder" of more than 50 Arabs by a half battalion of regular Israeli troops.

Tension At Breaking Point

"They indicated that tension had increased to breaking point, either locally, in a particular area, or perhaps generally between the two countries (Jordan and Israel)," Bennike said. When the breaking point is reached, he added, "temptation to resort to force may prevail over wise counsels and restraint."

Ambassador Abba Eban of Israel annouced Israel would suspend work on the power project as the Security Council met for the second time today to debate a complaint against it by Syria. Bennike already had asked Israel twice to stop the work pending a settlement, but Eban's statement was the first sign Israel would do so.

Report Refers To Raids

Bennike took 58 minutes to read his report. It was filled with official comments about various raids by Arabs and Jews on each other's territory along the 400-mile frontier.

Bennike devoted much of his report to the Kibya incident which touched off debate in the Security Council on the frontier unrest. The United States, Britain and France demanded quick Council consideration of the situation. The United States furthermore, cut off virtually all economic aid to Israel because that country had refused to comply with Bennike's request to stop work on the Jordan River project.

USSR Agreeable To Big 4 Meeting

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP) — Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky said today the Soviet Union is agreeable to a meeting of chiefs of state of the big powers. But he objected to any test of Soviet sincerity and good intentions as a preliminary step to this meeting.

At a meeting of the U.N. Correspondents Assn., Vishinsky was asked about the prospects of results from a face-to-face meeting of the chiefs of state.

"There is no special problem in this," Vishinsky said in reply." As you know there is no question which cannot be solved on a basis of mutual interest and respect and without a preliminary test of the sincerity and good intentions of the Soviet Union."

Vishinsky referred specifically to President Eisenhower's speech last April in which the President said the United States wanted proof of Russian good intentions and sincerity before undertaking high level negotiations as Prime Minister Churchill has proposed.

Exploding Manholes Halt Detroit Traffic

DETROIT, Oct. 27 (AP)—Exploding manholes spouting geysers of flames interrupted telephone communications and halted traffic in downtown Detroit today.

Gas explosions in the big sewer under Woodward avenue, Detroit's main thoroughfare, blasted 100-pound manhole covers 20 feet in the air.

Pedestrians were startled by the explosions that cut off police and fire department communications. Traffic in a 32-block area was stopped.

Police said it was possible gas may have leaked into sewer.

Flier Tried Twice By Reds On Germ Warfare Charge

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 27 (AP)—First Lt. Joseph E. Moreland said today he was tried twice by the Reds in Korea on germ warfare charges and underwent 1,800 hours of questioning over a 15-month period.

Moreland's experience was brought to light yesterday at a session of the United Nations Political Committee. U. S. Delegate Dr. Charles Mayo, the noted Minnesota surgeon, cited his case among others in a lengthy report charging that Russians directed and actually participated in torture interrogations of some American prisoners of war in Korea.

Confined at "Pak's Palace" near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, Moreland said today in an interview, he saw a much-decorated official being honored at a banquet visible from his room.

"I think he was a Russian. You can't tell very well—the Russians and the Poles and Czechs or Bulgarians all look pretty much alike. They wear similar uniforms. But he undoubtedly was a Russian. He certainly wasn't an Oriental. He was there for several days."

While no such Soviet leader actually took part in his own grilling, Moreland said, "I once tricked two of my interrogators into admitting they were Russian-trained in Peking."

The Reds kept their Soviet advisors "pretty well concealed," he said.

The Reds used the germ warfare propaganda, Moreland said, to "keep their people fighting," to overcome reluctance of North Koreans to submit to their inoculations against disease, and to keep them from picking up and reading the U.N.'s propaganda bomb leaflets. "They claimed the same bombs were the ones used in the germ warfare," he said.

Moreland said he knew some POWs broke down under pressure and signed prepared "confessions" to germ warfare.

John Waynes Ready To Sign Settlement

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27 (AP)—The battling John Waynes prepared today to sign a property settlement that reportedly will give Mrs. Wayne some $100,000 the first year.

Lawyers for both sides negotiated last minute details of the settlement on the eve of the resumption of the bitter trial.

Wayne, home in bed with a cold, promised he would be in court "dead or alive" tomorrow to refute one by one the charges hurled at him last week by his 31-year-old Mexican wife, Esperanza.

Both sides, at the court's order, have pledged themselves to secrecy on the details of the settlement. Published reports, all denied by both sides, say that she will get 15 per cent of his $500,000 a year income plus half the proceeds from sale of community property. The latter includes a $130,000 home in Encino.

McCarthy Group Would Quiz Army Screening Board

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP) — The Senate permanent investigations subcommittee said today it wants to question the Army's top screening board, which it claims coddled suspected Communists.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, chairman of the subcommittee, was absent from today's closed hearing. In Milwaukee, Wis., however, he said he will go to President Eisenhower if need be to get the names of the board.

McCarthy made the same threat six weeks ago when he tried to pry from the Army the names of personnel who gave loyalty clearance to suspect civilian employes. However, the Army refused him the names and nothing came of the threat.

A subcommittee aide said the Army's top screening board has reinstated "many civilian employes suspected of Communist activities."

G. David Schine, the subcommittee's chief consultant, added that a major general he did not identify refused to suspend a man who took secret documents to his home from Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

However, testimony has indicated that the employe — never identified by name — was suspended for 10 days at the time. Later, McCarthy has claimed, he was promoted, only to be suspended for good during the current subcommittee investigations.

Schine said he got in touch with McCarthy who "asked us to assemble as quickly as possible the names of members of the screening board of the Department of the Army."

The board is made up of civilians as well as Army officers, he explained.

Candidate Asks Voters To Support Opponent

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 27 (AP)—The Democratc candidate for treasurer of Plains township in Luzerne County today asked the people to vote for the other fellow on Nov. 3.

That is because his Republican opponent is a veteran of World War II and blind.

"After a great deal of study and consideration," said Democratic nominee Frank Danko, "having in mind the great sacrifice made by Edward Doblix for his country, in which sacrifice he lost the sight of both eyes, I have finally decided it would be unfair and unjust for me to oppose him."

Churchill Concedes Old Age Catching Up

LONDON, Oct. 27 (AP) — Winston Churchill, who turns 79 next Nov. 30, conceded a bit wistfully today that perhaps old age is catching up with him.

The Prime Minister told a group of Leeds city officials he's just unable to do the many things he'd like to do, "what with work that does not diminish and strength that does not increase."

Appearing slightly more stooped and slow of speech since his recent illness, Churchill thanked the officials for coming to 10 Downing St. to honor him with the freedom of Leeds.

Hagerstown Gas Rate Hike Halted By PSC

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP) — The Public Service Commission today suspended higher gas rates the Hagerstown Gas Co. planned to put into effect Sunday.

The PSC took the action pending completion of its investigation and a hearing at a date still to be set.

The suspension is effective until Feb. 28, 1954 unless otherwise ordered.

Ava Sees Lawyer As Legal Stage Reached In Spat

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27 (AP)—Ava Gardner today consulted an attorney, something she hasn't done the other times she and her husband, Frank Sinatra, have quarreled.

Both MGM and Neil McCarthy, counsel for the actress, confirmed that Miss Gardner's current spat with the crooner has reached the legal stage.

Both emphasized, however, that no decision has been reached whether Miss Gardner would file for divorce.

The latest rift took place just before Sinatra opened an engagement at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev. Ava was supposed to go up there with him. Instead, she and her sister went to Palm Springs.

Seven Presented Medals Of Honor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower presented Medals of Honor to seven heroes of the Korean War today and urged them to help lead the nation toward peace— "a situation where there will be no more Medals of Honor."

After fastening the battlefield decorations around the necks of three soldiers and four Marines, the President stepped back and said:

"Any man who wins the nation's highest decoration is marked for leadership. And now, instead of leading at battle, they must lead toward peace.

"They must make certain that no other young men follow them up these steps to receive the Medal of Honor."

Those honored were:

ARMY

1st. Lt. James L. Stone, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Sgt. Hiroshi Miyamura, Gallup, N. M., and Sgt. David B. Bleak, Shelley, Idaho.

MARINE CORPS

1st. Lt. Raymond G. Murphy, Pueblo, Colo; 1st Lt. George H. O'Brien Jr., Corpus Christi and Big Spring, Tex.; T.Sgt. Alford Lee McLaughlin, Leeds, Ala., and Rome, Ga., and Pfc. Robert Ernest Simanek, (9910 Decatur St.) Detroit.

Strange Found Guilty Of Income Tax Evasion

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP)—A Federal Court jury today returned a guilty verdict in the income tax evasion case of R. Thornton Strange, former St. John's College business manager and acting treasurer.

Sentencing was set for Thursday at 10 a. m.

The jury deliberated about two and one-half hours.

The government had contended the 54-year-old retired Annapolis clothing merchant understated his income by $35,460 over a three-year period beginning in 1945.

Songstress Won't Say If She'll Wed Julius

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—Dorothy McGuire refused today to say whether she'll marry Julius La Rosa, as he claims, or will not marry La Rosa, as her parents insist.

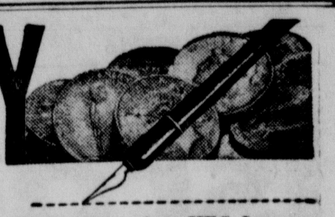

In an apparent switch of plans, a source close to Miss McGuire said she had decided against commenting. Earlier, this source had said she would have a statement today, but the attractive singer, 22, continued to duck newsmen.

Miss McGuire made her customary appearance with her two sisters on Arthur Godfrey's morning CBS radio-TV show from which La Rosa was fired abruptly at the end of a song just a week ago yesterday. Godfrey in introducing the McGuire sisters for their number expressed his high regard for them.

Appearing slightly more stooped and slow of speech since his recent illness, Churchill thanked the officials for coming to 10 Downing St. to honor him with the freedom of Leeds.

Hagerstown Gas Rate Hike Halted By PSC

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP) — The Public Service Commission today suspended higher gas rates the Hagerstown Gas Co. planned to put into effect Sunday.

The PSC took the action pending completion of its investigation and a hearing at a date still to be set.

The suspension is effective until Feb. 28, 1954 unless otherwise ordered.

Ava Sees Lawyer As Legal Stage Reached In Spat

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27 (AP)—Ava Gardner today consulted an attorney, something she hasn't done the other times she and her husband, Frank Sinatra, have quarreled.

Both MGM and Neil McCarthy, counsel for the actress, confirmed that Miss Gardner's current spat with the crooner has reached the legal stage.

Both emphasized, however, that no decision has been reached whether Miss Gardner would file for divorce.

The latest rift took place just before Sinatra opened an engagement at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev. Ava was supposed to go up there with him. Instead, she and her sister went to Palm Springs.

Seven Presented Medals Of Honor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower presented Medals of Honor to seven heroes of the Korean War today and urged them to help lead the nation toward peace— "a situation where there will be no more Medals of Honor."

After fastening the battlefield decorations around the necks of three soldiers and four Marines, the President stepped back and said:

"Any man who wins the nation's highest decoration is marked for leadership. And now, instead of leading at battle, they must lead toward peace.

"They must make certain that no other young men follow them up these steps to receive the Medal of Honor."

Those honored were:

ARMY

1st. Lt. James L. Stone, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Sgt. Hiroshi Miyamura, Gallup, N. M., and Sgt. David B. Bleak, Shelley, Idaho.

MARINE CORPS

1st. Lt. Raymond G. Murphy, Pueblo, Colo; 1st Lt. George H. O'Brien Jr., Corpus Christi and Big Spring, Tex.; T.Sgt. Alford Lee McLaughlin, Leeds, Ala., and Rome, Ga., and Pfc. Robert Ernest Simanek, (9910 Decatur St.) Detroit.

Strange Found Guilty Of Income Tax Evasion

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP)—A Federal Court jury today returned a guilty verdict in the income tax evasion case of R. Thornton Strange, former St. John's College business manager and acting treasurer.

Sentencing was set for Thursday at 10 a. m.

The jury deliberated about two and one-half hours.

The government had contended the 54-year-old retired Annapolis clothing merchant understated his income by $35,460 over a three-year period beginning in 1945.

Songstress Won't Say If She'll Wed Julius

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—Dorothy McGuire refused today to say whether she'll marry Julius La Rosa, as he claims, or will not marry La Rosa, as her parents insist.

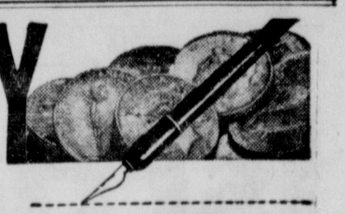

In an apparent switch of plans, a source close to Miss McGuire said she had decided against commenting. Earlier, this source had said she would have a statement today, but the attractive singer, 22, continued to duck newsmen.

Miss McGuire made her customary appearance with her two sisters on Arthur Godfrey's morning CBS radio-TV show from which La Rosa was fired abruptly at the end of a song just a week ago yesterday. Godfrey in introducing the McGuire sisters for their number expressed his high regard for them.

Radio Lassoes Once Free-Wheeling Cabbie

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—The world's most independent operator, the taxicab driver, has been hogtied at last—lassoed and brought down by a radio antenna.

At least that's the view of Jeremiah Courtney, general counsel for the American Taxicab Assn., who says:

"The taxi business is back in the hands of the bosses again."

The association is holding its 12th annual convention here, and it seemed like a good opportunity to find out what's new in hacking.

Courtney was listening to a panel discussion on the merits of cleaning carburetors regularly when your correspondent arrived.

"Let's go outside," Courtney said.

"The biggest postwar development in the taxi business is the two-way radio. During the war, drivers ran wild and did just as they pleased. Now, with the two-way radio, the owners know where their cabs are.

"Once again you can call a cab with the assurance of having it come to your door. I'd say call business is up 25 per cent."

Courtney then moved on to bigger things.

"Do you realize taxis make up the greatest fleet of two-way radio cars in the world? There are more than 100,000 cabs in this country, and I'd say more than half of them have two-way radios.

"Wonderful in case of a national emergency. Since both dispatchers and drivers know their cities like a book, what could be more effective than using them to help control traffic or rescue work?"

And how was taxi business in general? Courtney thought a minute before replying. "Put it this way," he said. "We aren't crying."

Moved back inside. Listened for awhile to a discussion of why the rear ends of cabs go bad. Went over to look at cab with large tank in its luggage compartment.

"I presume you're interested in our L.P. operation," said a man whose badge identified him as Charlie F. Loftin Jr., of Tulsa.

L.P., he said, stands for liquefied petroleum gas. "That's a glorified term which means butane, propane or a mixture of the two."

It costs around $200 to install the tank, but Loftin said L.P. is [illegible] gasoline and cuts down on engine wear. Cab companies in Milwaukee and Chicago now use the stuff, and Loftin is sure it's the fuel of the future.

"Sixty-one per cent of all cab operators show an interest in it," he said.

Trick-Or-Treat Gets International Flavor

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 27 (AP)—The trick-or-treat game will have an international flavor in the neighborhood of the Culver grade school here Saturday night.

Through a project planned by Mrs. Isel Pride, sponsor of the school's Junior Red Cross, the pupils' Halloween booty will be sent to children overseas through the Red Cross.

Housewives are being asked to make their treats useful, such as combs, socks, pencils, crayons or toys.

Children will hang paper pumpkins on the doorknobs as they leave as a signal that the house has been solicited.

Quadruplets Born At Lansing, Mich., "Doing Nicely"

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 27 (AP) — Four tiny, wizened faces — quadruplet babies — set this capitol city's heart pounding today. It was the second set of quads born here in 23 years.

The babies were born in Lansing's Sparrow Hospital where in 1930 the famed Morlok quads also first saw the light of day.

The 1953 quads were born to 33-year-old Mrs. June E. Trollman, a blue-eyed divorcee only 5 feet 2.

In the short space of 12 minutes —from 11:50 p.m. Monday to 12:02 a.m. today — Mrs. Trollman gave birth to three boys and a girl.

The children were placed immediately in an incubator and were reported "doing nicely" by the attending physician, Dr. E. J. Robson. A pediatrician, Dr. John S. Sander, assisted later.

Liz Makes Mistake, Sets Style Change

CAPRI, Italy, Oct. 27 (AP) — Ah, women.

Vacationing film star Elizabeth Taylor bought herself a gayly colored Capri jacket. Unfamiliar with how it was worn, she got it on inside out the other day.

Capri's womenfolk took a look and figured they must have missed a style change.

Today hardly a Capri jacket appeared on the streets that wasn't inside out.

Enemies Of Progress

What has been happening in British Guiana is a typical example of Communist methods of seizing power. Great Britain, forced to recognize that conditions were being prepared for a Communist coup, has been forced to take control and suspend the colony's new constitution until a royal commission can investigate and make recommendations for a permanent policy to prevent its overthrow.

In 1952 Britain announced a new constitution for British Guiana. In the spring of 1953, under its provisions, the first parliamentary election with full adult suffrage was held. Plans were under way to improve housing, working conditions, education and living standards.

This orderly program for the welfare of the country clashed with Communist plans. If they couldn't seize power themselves, the Communists wanted to block progress until conditions were ripe for a coup. As the best organized political group, the Reds were able to elect 18 members of their Peoples Progressive party to the 24-member assembly.

As office holders they fomented political strikes against the government, tried to undermine the loyalty of the police, disseminated Communist propaganda, initiated and directed subversive activities, tried to intimidate the assembly minority by bringing in their followers to shout threats and abuse. They even attacked the Boy Scouts and set up a Communist youth organization.

The pattern is familiar. The Reds use it wherever they have the opportunity. It was employed successfully in China. The Reds succeeded with it in liberated Czechoslovakia in 1948. The Guiana incident demonstrates the dilemma that faces nations that believe in freedom. Freedom constantly faces subversion by Communists driving for totalitarian power. Progress, ironically, gives the Reds opportunities they previously lacked.

Without A Trace

The "New Times," an English language weekly published in Moscow, makes light of the disappearance of the MacLeans. In its October 3 issue, it sneers at Scotland Yard's failure to find any trace of them, finds "amusement" in the thought that they might possibly have disappeared behind the iron curtain, and says the whole incident was a pretext used by the capitalist press for one of its slander campaigns against Russia.

"The campaign," concludes the article, "has obviously been instigated by ruling circles in the imperialist countries . . . to poison the international atmosphere. . . . The foul pens of the capitalist press . . ." and so on.

The tone of this article is revealing. What it overlooks is that, in the free world, a mysterious disappearance is news, especially when prominent people are involved. Some people even see it as a human tragedy. The mysterious disappearances of Robert Vogeler in Hungary and William Oatis in Czechoslovakia, for instance, evoked widespread concern and speculation in the United States.

Communist officials denied all knowledge of their whereabouts for months — after which it was announced that the men had been under arrest all that time, and had finally "confessed" to espionage and other crimes instigated by "imperialist ruling circles."

Mysterious disappearances in Russia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, and certain other countries are daily occurrences. They are not talked about in public, until an official announcement is released by Communist officials to whom they never were mysterious. So when two Western diplomats and the wife and three children of one of them mysteriously disappear, it is not surprising that there should be speculation about the possibility of their having gone to where mysterious disappearances are a commonplace.

Compromise On Members?

A workable compromise on admitting new states to the United Nations is being sought by a committee of the U.N. General Assembly. When this committee was appointed on October 15—with one member each from Egypt, The Netherlands and Peru—the Russians dropped temporarily their proposal for admitting all applicants, Communist and non-Communist, in a one-package deal.

The Russian proposal had undoubtedly had some appeal outside of the United States. After all, U.N. was originally visualized as inclusive, not exclusive, in order to fulfill better its aim of preserving peace among all nations.

However, the proposed horse-trade would, if accepted, increase the Soviet strength in U.N. proportionately. Of the present 60 U.N. members the Soviet bloc has only five, or 8.3 per cent.

Of the 21 new applicants, seven are Communist states — Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary, North Korea, Outer Mongolia, Romania, Viet Nam People's Republic (as for the Chinese Reds, they claim to represent China, already in U.N.). So if all 21 new applicants were to be admitted, the Communist bloc would amount to 12 out of 81 states, or 14.8 per cent.

Also, the U.N. charter specifies that U.N. membership is open to peace-loving states that accept the obligations of the charter. If the North Korean and the Viet Nam Communists, for example, want to convince everybody that they are indeed "peace-loving," they can be less obstreperous on, respectively, a permanent settlement for Korea and an end to the war in Indo-China.

Harder War On Cancer

Inspired by assurances that, while no positive cure has yet been found, progress is being made in arresting the inroads of cancer, 500 volunteers at the final session of a three-day leadership conference of the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society left Atlantic City more determined than ever.

They will endeavor to double their number, disseminate information about cancer more widely and try to double the contributions made by the people of the state. State after state is falling into line in the war on this dread disease, which is gaining in intensity.

Nothing can be more important than early realization by a victim of cancer that he has the disease. Recognized in time, cancer sometimes can be eliminated. Dr. Brewster Miller of New York, director of the professional education section of the American Cancer Society, declared that new methods and better techniques make possible the saving of more lives.

From reports of clinics throughout the country he declared that an estimated 260,000 persons afflicted with cancer are not only alive, but actually in good health, five years after it was discovered. Meanwhile research goes on unabated to detect the cause of the dread disease.

Early Recognition Of Cancer

Cancers of the stomach and intestine grow slowly and it is estimated that 20 months elapse besymptoms appear. By this time it may be too late even though the individual goes to the physician on the first sign of discomfort. It is this silent period that makes cancer of the digestive system so treacherous and explains why 60,000 die of the condition annually. $2,500 for materials and built a cot-

However, the situation is not as hopeless as it sounds. Sixty thousand are a lot of people but if the total is spread among all the general practitioners of this country, it means that each physician sees an average of one case every 18 months. Meanwhile he is consulted by several individuals daily with a variety of gastrointestinal symptoms so that the chance of cancer is extremely slim. This should be encouraging to those who always think of the worst the moment abdominal discomfort occurs.

I have no objection to considering cancer when indigestion, loss of appetite, or pain is noted but there will be less anxiety and fear if this idea is put at the bottom rather than the top of the list. The one case every 18 months demonstrates that cancer is not as common a cause of abdominal distress as are nervousness, overwork, spastic bowel, diverticulitis, gall bladder trouble, or ulcer. An attempt ought to be made to find the cause of the manifestations rather than to single out cancer and lose valuable time worrying about it.

Putting cancer low on the list, however, does not mean we should throw all caution to the winds or neglect abdominal complaints. The silent period of cancer growth varies and in many instances the earliest symptoms occur before it is too late. More often than not, however, they are considered lightly and medical attention is not sought. These manifestations include loss of appetite for well liked foods, undue fatigue at the end of the day, weight loss, and anemia. Occasionally the physician is at fault when he tells the individual to "forget it." This is likely to happen to the patient who is always worried about distress of this type and has consulted his doctor so often it has become a case of "wolf, wolf."

X-raying everyone with abdominal complaints, regardless of how trivial, is the only way cancer can be detected early. But the impractical aspect enters the picture because in thousands of X-rays only one cancer will be found. This has been demonstrated in our cancer detection clinics scattered throughout the country. Recently, Cameron reported on a study of 52,000 patients examined in 60 such clinics. The incidence of all malignancies was only 0.8 per cent, including those of the skin, breast, uterus, stomach, and intestines, whereas in patients over 60 it was 3.4 per cent. Such statistics have led many physicians to conclude that routine laboratory studies for cancer should be reserved for older individuals and those with a family history of the disease.

PSITTACOSIS

C. L. writes: If a person runs a high fever of unknown origin, can a blood test determine whether the cause is parrot fever?

REPLY

The diagnosis of psittacosis (parrot fever) is not always easy because the disorder is considered an atypical pneumonia. But certain blood tests are helpful in determining the cause of the symptoms.

LIVER IN ANEMIA

E. B. writes: My doctor gives me liver injections which I find painful and inconvenient. I heard recently about new pills one can take instead of injections. Can you tell me about them?

REPLY

If you do not have pernicious anemia, liver injections are unnecessary. In ordinary anemia they do not improve the blood count perceptibly. The tablets or capsules you refer to are iron or vitamin B-12.

WEIGHT AND DIABETES

B. V. writes: Why are diabetics fat, if they cannot utilize sugar?

REPLY

The majority become stout before developing diabetes and for this reason we believe the two conditions are related. When untreated at this stage, diabetics begin to lose but weight can be regulated with insulin and a proper diet.

LONELINESS

Mrs. W. writes: Do you know of any way to cure a fear of being alone?

REPLY

This is a toughie, and even our psychiatrists have difficulty treating this phobia. First, it is necessary to develop an insight into the origin or background of the fear. These causative factors may have been forgotten and, for this reason, many hours of probing may be needed to uncover them.

King Paul Stabilizes Greek Throne; Ezra Benson Helped End OPA-OPS Controls On Cattle; Now He's Asked To Put Them Back Again

WASHINGTON—"In what royal family has the father and all his sons ascended the throne?" asked Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer at an embassy dinner the other day.

Part of the answer arrives in Washington today—King Paul of Greece. He is the third son of King Constantine, who, together with all three of his sons, has ruled over the friendly, turbulent, vitally strategic country of Greece.

King Constantine, considered pro-German, was removed by the Allies in 1917. His son Alexander, who succeeded him, was bitten by a monkey and died. His father came back to the throne in 1920, to be succeeded the same year by Crown Prince George, who, after being put on and off the throne, and after heading his government during the hectic World War II years, died in 1949.

His younger brother Paul, now being welcomed in Washington, succeeded George and, thanks to a devoted wife plus American aid, has remained permanent and popular. In a country where living is rough, politics rough, and where the man in the street takes out his troubles on the crown, this is a real achievement.

Ezra Benson's Errors

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson is a sincere believer in the Biblical teaching that the righteous shall be rewarded and that the guilty shall atone for their sins and errors.

It is highly doubtful that he has committed any grevious sins; though he would be the first to admit his errors. And today he may look back with regret on a meeting in the National Press Club auditorium three years ago when his friends, the American Livestock Association, the American Meat Institute, the Farm Bureau, et al, rallied to knock down price ceilings and let the price of meat find its own level.

The meeting was held as perspiring, beleaguered Mike Di Salle, then price administrator, was trying to roll back the price of meat. The Korean War was on. Beef was 125 per cent of parity. DiSalle wanted to stop the inflation. But Benson and cattle friends wanted prices to go higher.

"Let the cattle breed," they said, "let the price take care of itself."

Eventually they succeeded. Di Salle was stopped from rolling back the price of beef to 100 per cent of parity. Instead, the price soared to 138 per cent. Eventually, Benson and his then warm friends, the cattlemen, abolished OPS altogether.

Some years earlier, in the Hotel Washington, Benson attended another meeting aimed at undercutting the price controls of OPA. After the meeting he signed a joint press release, as the representative of the cooperative council for which he was Washington lobbyist, demanding the end of OPA. Here again he succeeded.

Ezra's Aides

The years passed. Last January, Ezra Benson became secretary of Agriculture. One of his first appointments as No. 2 man in his far-flung department was True D. Morse, who wrote the program aimed at ending meat controls under OPS. The plan was called "a common-sense meat program" by True D. Morse, and just two weeks ago, speaking to the American Meat Institute, Ezra mentioned this program in a most laudatory manner.

Last Friday when Ezra lunched at the White House, sitting with him at the table with the President was Don Paarlberg, new chief economic adviser to the Agriculture Department, who, while at Cornell University, wrote a book viciously attacking OPA. The price of food, he demanded, should take care of itself.

Even though wrong, therefore, Ezra Benson has been completely, continuingly consistent.

Cattlemen's Caravan

It is quite understandable, therefore, that he winced when a caravan of cattlement wired him from the Great Plains states that they were descending on Washington to talk to him about price supports on meat. It is also understandable that Ezra at first wired back urging them not to come, indicating he could not see them.

This, of course, was the worst thing he could have done—as he discovered one hour after sending that telegram, when two television programs asked to put their TV cameras in his auditorium.

Apparently, what Ezra Benson, his economic adviser, Don Paarlberg, and his undersecretary, True D. Morse, didn't realize in OPA-OPS days is that whatever goes up must come down. And the price of meat, which soared from 125 per cent of parity at the Korean War outbreak to 138 per cent was bound to come down, and now is down to 76 per cent of parity.

As with anything that comes down suddenly, the descent is a lot more painful than the pleasant sensation of floating upward. Some of the cattlemen who harangued Ezra Benson yesterday have now reluctantly and belatedly found this out.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Presidency

Ever since I can remember, the presidency has been called a man-killing job. It truly must be a hard job if so much is said about it. I looked up what it has done during the 20th Century:

William McKinley was assassinated.

Theodore Roosevelt left the presidency in 1909; then he went hunting in Africa, edited the "Independent;" ran for a third term on the 'Bull Moose" ticket; tried ot get into World War I; died in 1919 at the age of 60.

William Howard Taft left the presidency in 1913; he became chief justice of the United States; died in 1930 at the age of 72.

Woodrow Wilson died of a tumor on the brain at the age of 67. He became ill during his presidency. There is no evidence that hard work had anything to do with it.

Warren Harding died in office at 57 under circumstances which leave the cause of death in doubt; but it was not overwork.

Calvin Coolidge left the presidency in 1929. He died of a heart attack in 1933 at the age of 60.

Herbert Hoover is still alive at the age of 79. He is actively engaged in the reorganization of the federal government at the head of a commission that bears his name.

Franklin D. Roosevelt died in office at the age of 63. He had served three terms and was in his fourth.

Harry Truman, who left the presidency less than a year ago, is busy writing an autobiography, making speeches and traveling about the country. He is 69 years old.

This is the record. Out of nine, only two died in office on account of illness; one was assassinated. As most presidents are past middle age, death is not unexpected: the seven who died averaged 62 years, if that tells anything.

There is no evidence in any kind of statistics that hard work, patricularly mental work, ever killed anybody. As a matter of fact, the records tend to show that mental workers live long, perhaps becaus they keep out of the way of accidents, do not strain vital organs, and do not exercise. (A last point is a private theory of my own based on nothing.) Also, mental workers generally eat lustily, which, according to the doctors, should shorten their lives. Only in the case of Harding is there even a suspicion that his death had anything to do with eating.

The presidency of the United States is an interesting, exciting, challenging job. Some psychologists insist that boredom in old age is a cause of decay and death. No one can take the presidency seriously and be bored with the job. Every moment something new and vital appears to stimulate the mind. Of course, if a man, such as Harding, likes to dodge responsibility, he may find that the challenges pass him by. Charles Evans Hughes, who was Harding's secretary of State, did most of the broad thinking of that administration. He died at the age of 86, after serving as chief justice of the United States.

The presidency is a position in a free society, which means that the President must be mentally agile, quick in his perceptions, capable of adjusting to public opinion, a mass psychologist to keep himself popular, an orator of sufficient calibre not to bore his nation, a leader of a party experienced enough not to lose elections. No president can succeed, just as no governor of a state can succeed, who lack these qualities, even if he is a competent administrator.

The position therefore requires unusual maturity and a philosophic turn of mind. Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Calvin Coolidge, and Franklin D. Roosevelt combined all these qualities. Herbert Hoover was too honest intellectually and too truthful in the expression of his views for the presidency; he achieved his greatest popularity 20 years after he left that office. Harry Truman still needs to be raised. Eisenhower is in office and cannot be discussed objectively.

I doubt that the presidency is a man-killing job except for those who dislike its numerous challenges and who cannot understand the nature of a free society and the limitations of constitutional government. Such a man finds its inhibitions distasteful and fails. Few such have reached the presidency.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — If you talk to the ambassador of any foreign country or any member of his staff and say anything that might possibly influence the opinion of these diplomats or their conduct on any matter in controversy with the United States, you may be arrested and put in jail.

This is what the so-called Logan Act really means. Yet few Americans know about it, and many of them are violating it every day both here and abroad. For the ban applies not merely to writing letters but also to oral communication.

The statute has never been enforced, possibly for the very good reason that its constitutionality might be challenged but mostly judicially whether the foreign government has or has not been influenced by the communication in question.

Act Is Broad

The Logan Act has come into the news many times, and only a few days ago was cited in connection with a letter written by Representative O'Konski, Republican, of Wisconsin, to President Rhee of the Republic of Korea advising him to release the prisoners who don't want to go back to the Communists. Nobody probably would ever be able to prove in court even if Mr. Rhee did release the prisoners, whether such an act would actually in the long run help or hurt the "measures of the Government of the United States."

Also the statute says communication can be carried on with a foreign government only if it is done with permission of our government, and the law doesn't say whether, for this purpose, Congress is or is not a part of the government. Usually when the executive branch is referred to in the statutes, the words "United States" are used and rarely is the broader word "government" by itself employed.

The exact wording of the Logan Act is so sweeping that it would cover almost every form of contact between newspapermen, business men, legislators, and others who talk over problems of the day with members of foreign governments or their diplomatic representatives in the various capitals of the world. Here is the text of the law, passed in 1799 and never repealed:

"Every citizen of the United States, whether actually resident or abiding within the same, or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or in any foreign country, who, without the permission or authority of the government, directly or indirectly, commences or carries on any verbal or written correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agent thereof, with an intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign government or of any officer or agent thereof, in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States, or to defeat the measures of the Government of the United States; and every person, being a citizen of or resident within the United States or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and not duly authorized, who counsels, advises, or assists in any such correspondence with such intent, shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than three years; but nothing in this section shall be construed to abridge the right of a citizen to apply, himself or his agent, to any foreign government or the agents thereof for redress of any injury which he may have sustained from such government or any of its agents or subjects."

Should Be Repealed

There are many organizations in America which have felt free to interpose their influence with the diplomatic representatives of other countries—often with the intent of helping to bring about a peaceful solution of existing disputes or controversies with the United States. Yet such well-meaning efforts, unless authorized in advance, could be the subject of prosecution if the Logan Act were enforced.

Then there are instances when foreign diplomats seek out Americans and frankly discuss existing situations in relation to disputes with the United States. For any American to advise a foreign government in such an informal chat at luncheon or dinner becomes an offense under the Logan Act unless permission has been granted by our "government."

This is one of the laws that, if passed for the first time today, would be greeted with cries of "thought control" and "conformity." For it is a law that plainly would restrict free speech and the freedom of the press, since a newspaperman who wrote an editorial criticizing the policy of the American government and sent a copy of his newspaper to a foreign government could technically be charged with violating the Logan Act.

It is high time Congress appointed a committee to repeal useless laws—and the Logan Act is certainly one of them. It would be desirable to have a law that prohibited any American from representing himself as authorized to speak for the executive branch of the United States Government in any communication with a foreign government, but the present law goes far beyond that restriction.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — Theodore Roosevelt, 26th president of the United States, would have been 95 years old this week had he survived. The wonder is that he lived as long (61 years) as he did, and as robustly and productively, for he was a sickly child whose life was despaired of.

The grandchildren of his secretary of commerce and labor, the family of the late Oscar S. Straus, have now made possible a permanent exhibition "The Life of Theodore Roosevelt" in the American Museum of Natural History. It is certain to become a tourist mecca for there is evidence of a tremendous rebirth of interest in this remarkable man in this age when, reversing his advice, we walk loudly and carry a small stick.

Teddy Roosevelt the child traveler, the family man, author, naturalist, explorer, New York City police commissioner, governor, assistant secretary of the Navy, lt. col. of the Rough Riders, vice president, president, elder statesman and Nobel prize winner can now be seen through letters, photographs and an infinite variety of other things he left behind him.

Roosevelt wrote 37 books, more than most of the other presidents combined. He was an early Churchill at phrase-making. He coined "weisel words," "my hat is in the ring," and "lunatic fringe," among others. He is said to have been able to absorb a page of a book with hardly more than a few over-all glances. Of his voracious reading habits, Jacob Riis wrote:

"In all the wild excitement of the closing hours of the convention that set him in the vice president's chair, he, alone in an upper room, was reading Thucydides." He wrote a "nonsense poem" to soothe the kids at bedtime, and in doing so displayed his astounding knowledge of natural history:

"Trilobite, grapholite, nautilus pie
Seas were calcareous, oceans were dry.
Eocene, pliocene, miocene, tough!
Lias and trias, and that is enough!"

For all his tramping about the world, he was a devoted father, the exhibition stresses. Once in talking of his children he said, "I had not the heart to refuse, but really it seems, to put it mildly, rather odd for a stout, elderly president to be bouncing over hayricks in a wild effort to get to goal before an active midget of a competitor. However, it was really great fun."

And there is a touching tribute to his wife in his diary:

"As I mounted the White House steps, Edith came to meet me, and I suddenly realized that, no matter what the outcome of my election, my happiness was assured, for my life with Edith and my children constitutes my happiness."

Roosevelt, the Harvard undergrad, is on view in his diaries and pictures, and Roosevelt, aged 14, traveling through Europe, Egypt and the Holy Land. So is Roosevelt the North Dakota ranchman, Roosevelt who refused to shoot a bear cub (inspiring Cliff Berryman's "Teddy Bear" cartoon and a long line of by-products), Roosevelt the lion and elephant hunter, and Roosevelt the ornithologist.

("Gentlemen, do you know what happened this morning?" he once demanded of his startled cabinet. He broke the tense silence that followed, by adding, "I saw a chestnut-sided warbler—and this is only February.' ")

The scholar, digging beneath the surface of the exhibition, will come upon many examples of the striking difference between Roosevelt's approach to a foreign policy and the philosophies of the last three U. S. presidents.

In an instance not essentially unlike the Bill Oatis case, an American citizen named Perdicaris was captured in Morocco in 1904 by an important chieftain named Raisuli. Roosevelt simply wired the sultan: "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead."

T. R.'s eye-opening defense of his alleged ruthlessness in pushing through the Panama Canal project is reprinted in "The Panama Canal," a landmark book published by Random House. The sale of several million copies of this book would make Mr. Cerf and the author quite happy.

Enemies Of Progress

What has been happening in British Guiana is a typical example of Communist methods of seizing power. Great Britain, forced to recognize that conditions were being prepared for a Communist coup, has been forced to take control and suspend the colony's new constitution until a royal commission can investigate and make recommendations for a permanent policy to prevent its overthrow.

In 1952 Britain announced a new constitution for British Guiana. In the spring of 1953, under its provisions, the first parliamentary election with full adult suffrage was held. Plans were under way to improve housing, working conditions, education and living standards.

This orderly program for the welfare of the country clashed with Communist plans. If they couldn't seize power themselves, the Communists wanted to block progress until conditions were ripe for a coup. As the best organized political group, the Reds were able to elect 18 members of their Peoples Progressive party to the 24-member assembly.

As office holders they fomented political strikes against the government, tried to undermine the loyalty of the police, disseminated Communist propaganda, initiated and directed subversive activities, tried to intimidate the assembly minority by bringing in their followers to shout threats and abuse. They even attacked the Boy Scouts and set up a Communist youth organization.

The pattern is familiar. The Reds use it wherever they have the opportunity. It was employed successfully in China. The Reds succeeded with it in liberated Czechoslovakia in 1948. The Guiana incident demonstrates the dilemma that faces nations that believe in freedom. Freedom constantly faces subversion by Communists driving for totalitarian power. Progress, ironically, gives the Reds opportunities they previously lacked.

Without A Trace

The "New Times," an English language weekly published in Moscow, makes light of the disappearance of the MacLeans. In its October 3 issue, it sneers at Scotland Yard's failure to find any trace of them, finds "amusement" in the thought that they might possibly have disappeared behind the iron curtain, and says the whole incident was a pretext used by the capitalist press for one of its slander campaigns against Russia.

"The campaign," concludes the article, "has obviously been instigated by ruling circles in the imperialist countries . . . to poison the international atmosphere. . . . The foul pens of the capitalist press . . ." and so on.

The tone of this article is revealing. What it overlooks is that, in the free world, a mysterious disappearance is news, especially when prominent people are involved. Some people even see it as a human tragedy. The mysterious disappearances of Robert Vogeler in Hungary and William Oatis in Czechoslovakia, for instance, evoked widespread concern and speculation in the United States.

Communist officials denied all knowledge of their whereabouts for months — after which it was announced that the men had been under arrest all that time, and had finally "confessed" to espionage and other crimes instigated by "imperialist ruling circles."

Mysterious disappearances in Russia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, and certain other countries are daily occurrences. They are not talked about in public, until an official announcement is released by Communist officials to whom they never were mysterious. So when two Western diplomats and the wife and three children of one of them mysteriously disappear, it is not surprising that there should be speculation about the possibility of their having gone to where mysterious disappearances are a commonplace.

Compromise On Members?

A workable compromise on admitting new states to the United Nations is being sought by a committee of the U.N. General Assembly. When this committee was appointed on October 15—with one member each from Egypt, The Netherlands and Peru—the Russians dropped temporarily their proposal for admitting all applicants, Communist and non-Communist, in a one-package deal.

The Russian proposal had undoubtedly had some appeal outside of the United States. After all, U.N. was originally visualized as inclusive, not exclusive, in order to fulfill better its aim of preserving peace among all nations.

However, the proposed horse-trade would, if accepted, increase the Soviet strength in U.N. proportionately. Of the present 60 U.N. members the Soviet bloc has only five, or 8.3 per cent.

Of the 21 new applicants, seven are Communist states — Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary, North Korea, Outer Mongolia, Romania, Viet Nam People's Republic (as for the Chinese Reds, they claim to represent China, already in U.N.). So if all 21 new applicants were to be admitted, the Communist bloc would amount to 12 out of 81 states, or 14.8 per cent.

Also, the U.N. charter specifies that U.N. membership is open to peace-loving states that accept the obligations of the charter. If the North Korean and the Viet Nam Communists, for example, want to convince everybody that they are indeed "peace-loving," they can be less obstreperous on, respectively, a permanent settlement for Korea and an end to the war in Indo-China.

Cancers of the stomach and intestine grow slowly and it is estimated that 20 months elapse besymptoms appear. By this time it may be too late even though the individual goes to the physician on the first sign of discomfort. It is this silent period that makes cancer of the digestive system so treacherous and explains why 60,000 die of the condition annually. $2,500 for materials and built a cot-

However, the situation is not as hopeless as it sounds. Sixty thousand are a lot of people but if the total is spread among all the general practitioners of this country, it means that each physician sees an average of one case every 18 months. Meanwhile he is consulted by several individuals daily with a variety of gastrointestinal symptoms so that the chance of cancer is extremely slim. This should be encouraging to those who always think of the worst the moment abdominal discomfort occurs.

I have no objection to considering cancer when indigestion, loss of appetite, or pain is noted but there will be less anxiety and fear if this idea is put at the bottom rather than the top of the list. The one case every 18 months demonstrates that cancer is not as common a cause of abdominal distress as are nervousness, overwork, spastic bowel, diverticulitis, gall bladder trouble, or ulcer. An attempt ought to be made to find the cause of the manifestations rather than to single out cancer and lose valuable time worrying about it.

Putting cancer low on the list, however, does not mean we should throw all caution to the winds or neglect abdominal complaints. The silent period of cancer growth varies and in many instances the earliest symptoms occur before it is too late. More often than not, however, they are considered lightly and medical attention is not sought. These manifestations include loss of appetite for well liked foods, undue fatigue at the end of the day, weight loss, and anemia. Occasionally the physician is at fault when he tells the individual to "forget it." This is likely to happen to the patient who is always worried about distress of this type and has consulted his doctor so often it has become a case of "wolf, wolf."

X-raying everyone with abdominal complaints, regardless of how trivial, is the only way cancer can be detected early. But the impractical aspect enters the picture because in thousands of X-rays only one cancer will be found. This has been demonstrated in our cancer detection clinics scattered throughout the country. Recently, Cameron reported on a study of 52,000 patients examined in 60 such clinics. The incidence of all malignancies was only 0.8 per cent, including those of the skin, breast, uterus, stomach, and intestines, whereas in patients over 60 it was 3.4 per cent. Such statistics have led many physicians to conclude that routine laboratory studies for cancer should be reserved for older individuals and those with a family history of the disease.

PSITTACOSIS

C. L. writes: If a person runs a high fever of unknown origin, can a blood test determine whether the cause is parrot fever?

REPLY

The diagnosis of psittacosis (parrot fever) is not always easy because the disorder is considered an atypical pneumonia. But certain blood tests are helpful in determining the cause of the symptoms.

LIVER IN ANEMIA

E. B. writes: My doctor gives me liver injections which I find painful and inconvenient. I heard recently about new pills one can take instead of injections. Can you tell me about them?

REPLY

If you do not have pernicious anemia, liver injections are unnecessary. In ordinary anemia they do not improve the blood count perceptibly. The tablets or capsules you refer to are iron or vitamin B-12.

WEIGHT AND DIABETES

B. V. writes: Why are diabetics fat, if they cannot utilize sugar?

REPLY

The majority become stout before developing diabetes and for this reason we believe the two conditions are related. When untreated at this stage, diabetics begin to lose but weight can be regulated with insulin and a proper diet.

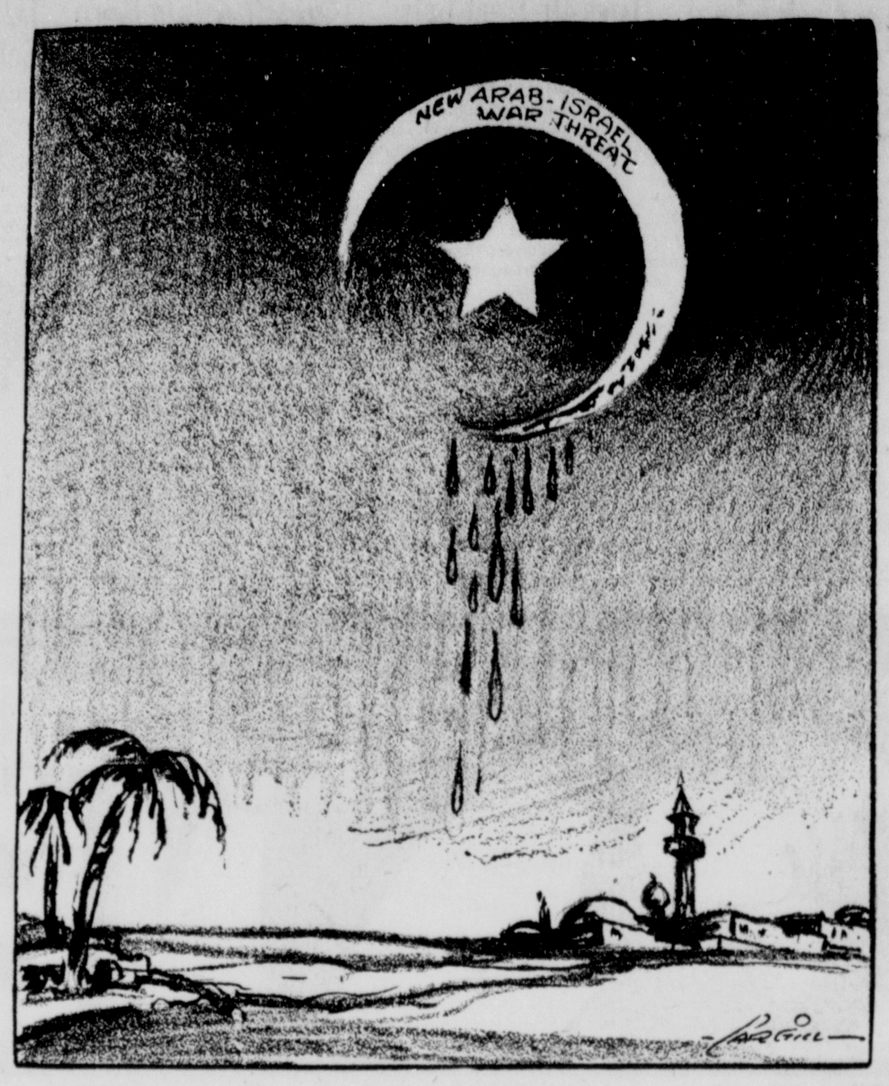

LONELINESS

Mrs. W. writes: Do you know of any way to cure a fear of being alone?

REPLY

This is a toughie, and even our psychiatrists have difficulty treating this phobia. First, it is necessary to develop an insight into the origin or background of the fear. These causative factors may have been forgotten and, for this reason, many hours of probing may be needed to uncover them.

King Paul Stabilizes Greek Throne; Ezra Benson Helped End OPA-OPS Controls On Cattle; Now He's Asked To Put Them Back Again

WASHINGTON—"In what royal family has the father and all his sons ascended the throne?" asked Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer at an embassy dinner the other day.

Part of the answer arrives in Washington today—King Paul of Greece. He is the third son of King Constantine, who, together with all three of his sons, has ruled over the friendly, turbulent, vitally strategic country of Greece.

King Constantine, considered pro-German, was removed by the Allies in 1917. His son Alexander, who succeeded him, was bitten by a monkey and died. His father came back to the throne in 1920, to be succeeded the same year by Crown Prince George, who, after being put on and off the throne, and after heading his government during the hectic World War II years, died in 1949.

His younger brother Paul, now being welcomed in Washington, succeeded George and, thanks to a devoted wife plus American aid, has remained permanent and popular. In a country where living is rough, politics rough, and where the man in the street takes out his troubles on the crown, this is a real achievement.

Ezra Benson's Errors

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson is a sincere believer in the Biblical teaching that the righteous shall be rewarded and that the guilty shall atone for their sins and errors.

It is highly doubtful that he has committed any grevious sins; though he would be the first to admit his errors. And today he may look back with regret on a meeting in the National Press Club auditorium three years ago when his friends, the American Livestock Association, the American Meat Institute, the Farm Bureau, et al, rallied to knock down price ceilings and let the price of meat find its own level.

The meeting was held as perspiring, beleaguered Mike Di Salle, then price administrator, was trying to roll back the price of meat. The Korean War was on. Beef was 125 per cent of parity. DiSalle wanted to stop the inflation. But Benson and cattle friends wanted prices to go higher.

"Let the cattle breed," they said, "let the price take care of itself."

Eventually they succeeded. Di Salle was stopped from rolling back the price of beef to 100 per cent of parity. Instead, the price soared to 138 per cent. Eventually, Benson and his then warm friends, the cattlemen, abolished OPS altogether.

Some years earlier, in the Hotel Washington, Benson attended another meeting aimed at undercutting the price controls of OPA. After the meeting he signed a joint press release, as the representative of the cooperative council for which he was Washington lobbyist, demanding the end of OPA. Here again he succeeded.

Ezra's Aides

The years passed. Last January, Ezra Benson became secretary of Agriculture. One of his first appointments as No. 2 man in his far-flung department was True D. Morse, who wrote the program aimed at ending meat controls under OPS. The plan was called "a common-sense meat program" by True D. Morse, and just two weeks ago, speaking to the American Meat Institute, Ezra mentioned this program in a most laudatory manner.

Last Friday when Ezra lunched at the White House, sitting with him at the table with the President was Don Paarlberg, new chief economic adviser to the Agriculture Department, who, while at Cornell University, wrote a book viciously attacking OPA. The price of food, he demanded, should take care of itself.

Even though wrong, therefore, Ezra Benson has been completely, continuingly consistent.

Cattlemen's Caravan

It is quite understandable, therefore, that he winced when a caravan of cattlement wired him from the Great Plains states that they were descending on Washington to talk to him about price supports on meat. It is also understandable that Ezra at first wired back urging them not to come, indicating he could not see them.

This, of course, was the worst thing he could have done—as he discovered one hour after sending that telegram, when two television programs asked to put their TV cameras in his auditorium.

Apparently, what Ezra Benson, his economic adviser, Don Paarlberg, and his undersecretary, True D. Morse, didn't realize in OPA-OPS days is that whatever goes up must come down. And the price of meat, which soared from 125 per cent of parity at the Korean War outbreak to 138 per cent was bound to come down, and now is down to 76 per cent of parity.

As with anything that comes down suddenly, the descent is a lot more painful than the pleasant sensation of floating upward. Some of the cattlemen who harangued Ezra Benson yesterday have now reluctantly and belatedly found this out.

These Days

The Presidency

Ever since I can remember, the presidency has been called a man-killing job. It truly must be a hard job if so much is said about it. I looked up what it has done during the 20th Century:

William McKinley was assassinated.

Theodore Roosevelt left the presidency in 1909; then he went hunting in Africa, edited the "Independent;" ran for a third term on the 'Bull Moose" ticket; tried ot get into World War I; died in 1919 at the age of 60.

William Howard Taft left the presidency in 1913; he became chief justice of the United States; died in 1930 at the age of 72.

Woodrow Wilson died of a tumor on the brain at the age of 67. He became ill during his presidency. There is no evidence that hard work had anything to do with it.

Warren Harding died in office at 57 under circumstances which leave the cause of death in doubt; but it was not overwork.

Calvin Coolidge left the presidency in 1929. He died of a heart attack in 1933 at the age of 60.

Herbert Hoover is still alive at the age of 79. He is actively engaged in the reorganization of the federal government at the head of a commission that bears his name.

Franklin D. Roosevelt died in office at the age of 63. He had served three terms and was in his fourth.

Harry Truman, who left the presidency less than a year ago, is busy writing an autobiography, making speeches and traveling about the country. He is 69 years old.

This is the record. Out of nine, only two died in office on account of illness; one was assassinated. As most presidents are past middle age, death is not unexpected: the seven who died averaged 62 years, if that tells anything.

There is no evidence in any kind of statistics that hard work, particularly mental work, ever killed anybody. As a matter of fact, the records tend to show that mental workers live long, perhaps because they keep out of the way of accidents, do not strain vital organs, and do not exercise. My last point is a private theory of my own based on nothing.) Also, mental workers generally eat lustily, which, according to the doctors, should shorten their lives. Only in the case of Harding is there even a suspicion that his death had anything to do with eating.

The presidency of the United States is an interesting, exciting, challenging job. Some psychologists insist that boredom in old age is a cause of decay and death. No one can take the presidency seriously and be bored with the job. Every moment something new and vital appears to stimulate the mind. Of course, if a man, such as Harding, likes to dodge responsibility, he may find that the challenges pass him by. Charles Evans Hughes, who was Harding's secretary of State, did most of the broad thinking of that administration. He died at the age of 86, after serving as chief justice of the United States.

The presidency is a position in a free society, which means that the President must be mentally agile, quick in his perceptions, capable of adjusting to public opinion, a mass psychologist to keep himself popular, an orator of sufficient calibre not to bore his nation, a leader of a party experienced enough not to lose elections. No president can succeed, just as no governor of a state can succeed, who lack these qualities, even if he is a competent administrator.

The position therefore requires unusual maturity and a philosophic turn of mind. Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Calvin Coolidge, and Franklin D. Roosevelt combined all these qualities. Herbert Hoover was too honest intellectually and too truthful in the expression of his views for the presidency; he achieved his greatest popularity 20 years after he left that office. Harry Truman still needs to be raised. Eisenhower is in office and cannot be discussed objectively.

I doubt that the presidency is a man-killing job except for those who dislike its numerous challenges and who cannot understand the nature of a free society and the limitations of constitutional government. Such a man finds its inhibitions distasteful and fails. Few such have reached the presidency.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — If you talk to the ambassador of any foreign country or any member of his staff and say anything that might possibly influence the opinion of these diplomats or their conduct on any matter in controversy with the United States, you may be arrested and put in jail.

This is what the so-called Logan Act really means. Yet few Americans know about it, and many of them are violating it every day both here and abroad. For the ban applies not merely to writing letters but also to oral communication.

The statute has never been enforced, possibly for the very good reason that its constitutionality might be challenged but mostly judicially whether the foreign government has or has not been influenced by the communication in question.

Act Is Broad

The Logan Act has come into the news many times, and only a few days ago was cited in connection with a letter written by Representative O'Konski, Republican, of Wisconsin, to President Rhee of the Republic of Korea advising him to release the prisoners who don't want to go back to the Communists. Nobody probably would ever be able to prove in court even if Mr. Rhee did release the prisoners, whether such an act would actually in the long run help or hurt the "measures of the Government of the United States."

Also the statute says communication can be carried on with a foreign government only if it is done with permission of our government, and the law doesn't say whether, for this purpose, Congress is or is not a part of the government. Usually when the executive branch is referred to in the statutes, the words "United States" are used and rarely is the broader word "government" by itself employed.

The exact wording of the Logan Act is so sweeping that it would cover almost every form of contact between newspapermen, business men, legislators, and others who talk over problems of the day with members of foreign governments or their diplomatic representatives in the various capitals of the world. Here is the text of the law, passed in 1799 and never repealed:

"Every citizen of the United States, whether actually resident or abiding within the same, or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or in any foreign country, who, without the permission or authority of the government, directly or indirectly, commences or carries on any verbal or written correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agent thereof, with an intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign government or of any officer or agent thereof, in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States, or to defeat the measures of the Government of the United States; and every person, being a citizen of or resident within the United States or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and not duly authorized, who counsels, advises, or assists in any such correspondence with such intent, shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than three years; but nothing in this section shall be construed to abridge the right of a citizen to apply, himself or his agent, to any foreign government or the agents thereof for redress of any injury which he may have sustained from such government or any of its agents or subjects."

Should Be Repealed

There are many organizations in America which have felt free to interpose their influence with the diplomatic representatives of other countries—often with the intent of helping to bring about a peaceful solution of existing disputes or controversies with the United States. Yet such well-meaning efforts, unless authorized in advance, could be the subject of prosecution if the Logan Act were enforced.

Then there are instances when foreign diplomats seek out Americans and frankly discuss existing situations in relation to disputes with the United States. For any American to advise a foreign government in such an informal chat at luncheon or dinner becomes an offense under the Logan Act unless permission has been granted by our "government."

This is one of the laws that, if passed for the first time today, would be greeted with cries of "thought control" and "conformity." For it is a law that plainly would restrict free speech and the freedom of the press, since a newspaperman who wrote an editorial criticizing the policy of the American government and sent a copy of his newspaper to a foreign government could technically be charged with violating the Logan Act.

It is high time Congress appointed a committee to repeal useless laws—and the Logan Act is certainly one of them. It would be desirable to have a law that prohibited any American from representing himself as authorized to speak for the executive branch of the United States Government in any communication with a foreign government, but the present law goes far beyond that restriction.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — Theodore Roosevelt, 26th president of the United States, would have been 95 years old this week had he survived. The wonder is that he lived as long (61 years) as he did, and as robustly and productively, for he was a sickly child whose life was despaired of.

The grandchildren of his secretary of commerce and labor, the family of the late Oscar S. Straus, have now made possible a permanent exhibition "The Life of Theodore Roosevelt" in the American Museum of Natural History. It is certain to become a tourist mecca for there is evidence of a tremendous rebirth of interest in this remarkable man in this age when, reversing his advice, we walk loudly and carry a small stick.

Teddy Roosevelt the child traveler, the family man, author, naturalist, explorer, New York City police commissioner, governor, assistant secretary of the Navy, lt. col. of the Rough Riders, vice president, president, elder statesman and Nobel prize winner can now be seen through letters, photographs and an infinite variety of other things he left behind him.

Roosevelt wrote 37 books, more than most of the other presidents combined. He was an early Churchill at phrase-making. He coined "weisel words," "my hat is in the ring," and "lunatic fringe," among others. He is said to have been able to absorb a page of a book with hardly more than a few over-all glances. Of his voracious reading habits, Jacob Riis wrote:

"In all the wild excitement of the closing hours of the convention that set him in the vice president's chair, he, alone in an upper room, was reading Thucydides." He wrote a "nonsense poem" to soothe the kids at bedtime, and in doing so displayed his astounding knowledge of natural history:

"Trilobite, grapholite, nautilus pie
Seas were calcareous, oceans were dry.
Eocene, pliocene, miocene, tough!
Lias and trias, and that is enough!"

For all his tramping about the world, he was a devoted father, the exhibition stresses. Once in talking of his children he said, "I had not the heart to refuse, but really it seems, to put it mildly, rather odd for a stout, elderly president to be bouncing over hayricks in a wild effort to get to goal before an active midget of a competitor. However, it was really great fun."

And there is a touching tribute to his wife in his diary:

"As I mounted the White House steps, Edith came to meet me, and I suddenly realized that, no matter what the outcome of my election, my happiness was assured, for my life with Edith and my children constitutes my happiness."

Roosevelt, the Harvard undergrad, is on view in his diaries and pictures, and Roosevelt, aged 14, traveling through Europe, Egypt and the Holy Land. So is Roosevelt the North Dakota ranchman, Roosevelt who refused to shoot a bear cub (inspiring Cliff Berryman's "Teddy Bear" cartoon and a long line of by-products), Roosevelt the lion and elephant hunter, and Roosevelt the ornithologist.

("Gentlemen, do you know what happened this morning?" he once demanded of his startled cabinet. He broke the tense silence that followed, by adding, "I saw a chestnut-sided warbler—and this is only February.' ")

The scholar, digging beneath the surface of the exhibition, will come upon many examples of the striking difference between Roosevelt's approach to a foreign policy and the philosophies of the last three U. S. presidents.

In an instance not essentially unlike the Bill Oatis case, an American citizen named Perdicaris was captured in Morocco in 1904 by an important chieftain named Raisuli. Roosevelt simply wired the sultan: "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead."

T. R.'s eye-opening defense of his alleged ruthlessness in pushing through the Panama Canal project is reprinted in "The Panama Canal," a landmark book published by Random House. The sale of several million copies of this book would make Mr. Cerf and the author quite happy.

Not Quite On The Potomac

When the desk-master blows the whistle for the senatorial shape-up the score will be closer than ticks in a watch.

The two big organizations on the Potomac waterfront are both on the prowl for the works. Every census shows there are more fleas than pups.

The governor of Ohio poured mucilage down the mail chute when he appointed a Democrat to load Bob Taft's vacancy. Bob was so Republican he wouldn't lick a stamp with Andy Jackson's picture on it.

That appointment gives the Demos 48 objections, the Repubs 47 nods and one as independent as a goat on a hill.

If the independer votes Republican it ties everything up like a square dance to waltz time.

If the independose gangs with the Democrats it blows a fuse in the White House.

Maryland Forest Fire Threat Lessened By Steady Rainfall

[By The Associated Press]

Rain moved into Maryland from the West yesterday and last night, soaking the state's forests and farmlands and lessening—at least for the time being—the forest fire danger.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Baltimore said the rainfall would continue, light but steady, into the morning today with occasional showers this afternoon. Cooler air also moved in bringing lower temperatures more in keeping with the season.

A steady rainfall late yesterday helped knock out Central Maryland's biggest forest fire of the season, a 15-acre blaze in the Mt. Lena section of Washington County near the Washington - Frederick County line.

Western counties got the earliest and heaviest rain, which moved on through Central Maryland about mid-afternoon. General rain was not expected to reach the Eastern Shore until later in the night.

Frederick, one of the earliest points reporting, had 13 one-hundredths of an inch at 4:30 p.m.

The Weather Bureau said cool temperatures should last through Thursday, with warmer weather and some more rain Friday or Saturday, and a return of cooler temperatures over the week-end.

Motorist Blames Cigars For Crash

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP)—George Ritter, 74, admitted he was under the influence when his car banged into the back of a police cruiser—under the influence of cigars, not alcohol.

"When I start smoking I don't know when to stop and the first thing you know I'm under the influence," he told a police magistrate in suburban Essex last night.

He said he had one beer and four cigars.

State police charged him with reckless and drunken driving.

When Ritter reported he had driven for 36 years without getting a ticket or having an accident, Magistrate John N. McGuire cancelled a $101 fine on the drunken driving charge but let the $25 for reckless driving stand.

Open House In Schools

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP)—Public schools throughout the state are planning special activities and an open house Nov. 8-14 as part of American Education Week.

Gov. McKeldin has issued a proclamation urging everyone to visit the schools and study their problems.

Highway Issue To Be Discussed

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP)—Maryland's State Roads Commission will meet again with authorities in Washington Friday on the controversy over a route through Rock Creek Park for the new Washington National Pike.

The session with the National Capitol Planning Commission and the Maryland-National capital Park and Planning Commission will be at 1 p. m. at the Interior Department.

Russell H. McCain, chairman of the Roads Commission, and William F. Childs Jr., its chief engineer, will represent the State.

Maryland is in the midst of building a new four-lane super-highway between Frederick and Washington, to replace the present U. S. 240.

On the approach to northwest Washington, it wants to bring the southeast leg of the parkway through a section of Rock Creek Park and North Chevy Chase on the Maryland side of the District of Columbia line.

Residents of the area have opposed the route bitterly. The National Capital Planning Commission also has been against it.

Halloween Warning Mailed To Parents

COLUMBUS, Ind., Oct. 27 (AP)—Prosecutor Sidney Showalter and a number of Columbus parents received postcards yesterday with this pre-Halloween warning:

"If you consider your daughter's (or son's) welfare, you will see that she (or he) is in at night. I am prepared to insure against vandalism by the use of firearms."

"A Mead Villager."

Mead Village is a Columbus suburb.

CARE OF WALL TO WALL CARPETING

To maintain the new appearance of carpeting, experience proves that spots should be removed as they appear rather than doing an over-all cleaning job once or twice each year.

There is available a foam cleaner that does not leave rings when removing spots since it contains no naphtha or solvents. The use of this foam when spots appear, preserves the new appearance and life of carpeting. This cleaner known as Fina Foam may be purchased at ROSENBAUM'S.

Paralytic Granted Driver's License Without Pressure

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP) — Edward S. Lyden, chief investigator at the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles, said today no pressures were exerted to grant a driver's license to a "spastic paralytic."

Paul E. Burke, chairman of the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee, announced in the meantime he plans to go to the Legislative Council for a stricter checkup before licenses are given to those with physical disabilities.

The question was brought up by the case of Daniel Walderman of Baltimore, who was granted a driver's license in July after noting on his application he was a "spastic paralytic—no loss of coordination."

Two months later Walderman was involved in a head-on collission just northwest of Baltimore in which two women were killed.

Investigation at the Department of Motor Vehicles disclosed he had not been required to appear before the department's board of medical advisers. They said he passed a driving test without any apparent difficulty.

Capt. Rouse Story, chief examiner at the department, indicated today Walderman's application apparently was one that "just slipped through" without being referred to the medical board.

Rouse pointed out the examiners handle 163,000 applications a year.

Burke said he planned to go before the Legislative Council Nov. 11 with some kind of a program to tighten up the physical requirements for a driver's license.

Many who were in good health when they got their license now have disabilities ranging from poor vision to heart disease, Burke said. They are a potential danger on the highways.

Under Maryland's present system, drivers are not required to pass further tests after they once receive their permit.

Embezzlement Trial Delayed; Juror Ill

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP) — The embezzlement trial of Victor H. McSherry, Hagerstown bank teller, was delayed today when a juror became ill after being selected to hear the case.

Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut announced testimony would begin after another juror is selected Wednesday morning.

McSherry is accused of taking about $28,000 between April and December 1952 while he was working as a teller at the Nicodemus National Bank.

He has pleaded innocent.

Maryland Forest Fire Threat Lessened By Steady Rainfall

[By The Associated Press]

Rain moved into Maryland from the West yesterday and last night, soaking the state's forests and farmlands and lessening—at least for the time being—the forest fire danger.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Baltimore said the rainfall would continue, light but steady, into the morning today with occasional showers this afternoon. Cooler air also moved in bringing lower temperatures more in keeping with the season.

A steady rainfall late yesterday helped knock out Central Maryland's biggest forest fire of the season, a 15-acre blaze in the Mt. Lena section of Washington County near the Washington - Frederick County line.

Western counties got the earliest and heaviest rain, which moved on through Central Maryland about mid-afternoon. General rain was not expected to reach the Eastern Shore until later in the night.

Frederick, one of the earliest points reporting, had 13 one-hundredths of an inch at 4:30 p.m.

The Weather Bureau said cool temperatures should last through Thursday, with warmer weather and some more rain Friday or Saturday, and a return of cooler temperatures over the week-end.

Motorist Blames Cigars For Crash

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP)—George Ritter, 74, admitted he was under the influence when his car banged into the back of a police cruiser—under the influence of cigars, not alcohol.

"When I start smoking I don't know when to stop and the first thing you know I'm under the influence," he told a police magistrate in suburban Essex last night.

He said he had one beer and four cigars.

State police charged him with reckless and drunken driving.

When Ritter reported he had driven for 36 years without getting a ticket or having an accident, Magistrate John N. McGuire cancelled a $101 fine on the drunken driving charge but let the $25 for reckless driving stand.

Open House In Schools

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP)—Public schools throughout the state are planning special activities and an open house Nov. 8-14 as part of American Education Week.

Gov. McKeldin has issued a proclamation urging everyone to visit the schools and study their problems.

Highway Issue To Be Discussed

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP)—Maryland's State Roads Commission will meet again with authorities in Washington Friday on the controversy over a route through Rock Creek Park for the new Washington National Pike.

The session with the National Capitol Planning Commission and the Maryland-National capital Park and Planning Commission will be at 1 p. m. at the Interior Department.

Russell H. McCain, chairman of the Roads Commission, and William F. Childs Jr., its chief engineer, will represent the State.

Maryland is in the midst of building a new four-lane super-highway between Frederick and Washington, to replace the present U. S. 240.

On the approach to northwest Washington, it wants to bring the southeast leg of the parkway through a section of Rock Creek Park and North Chevy Chase on the Maryland side of the District of Columbia line.

Residents of the area have opposed the route bitterly. The National Capital Planning Commission also has been against it.

Halloween Warning Mailed To Parents

COLUMBUS, Ind., Oct. 27 (AP)—Prosecutor Sidney Showalter and a number of Columbus parents received postcards yesterday with this pre-Halloween warning:

"If you consider your daughter's (or son's) welfare, you will see that she (or he) is in at night. I am prepared to insure against vandalism by the use of firearms."

"A Mead Villager."

Mead Village is a Columbus suburb.

CARE OF WALL TO WALL CARPETING

To maintain the new appearance of carpeting, experience proves that spots should be removed as they appear rather than doing an over-all cleaning job once or twice each year.

There is available a foam cleaner that does not leave rings when removing spots since it contains no naphtha or solvents. The use of this foam when spots appear, preserves the new appearance and life of carpeting. This cleaner known as Fina Foam may be purchased at ROSENBAUM'S.

Paralytic Granted Driver's License Without Pressure

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP) — Edward S. Lyden, chief investigator at the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles, said today no pressures were exerted to grant a driver's license to a "spastic paralytic."

Paul E. Burke, chairman of the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee, announced in the meantime he plans to go to the Legislative Council for a stricter checkup before licenses are given to those with physical disabilities.

The question was brought up by the case of Daniel Walderman of Baltimore, who was granted a driver's license in July after noting on his application he was a "spastic paralytic—no loss of coordination."

Two months later Walderman was involved in a head-on collission just northwest of Baltimore in which two women were killed.

Investigation at the Department of Motor Vehicles disclosed he had not been required to appear before the department's board of medical advisers. They said he passed a driving test without any apparent difficulty.

Capt. Rouse Story, chief examiner at the department, indicated today Walderman's application apparently was one that "just slipped through" without being referred to the medical board.

Rouse pointed out the examiners handle 163,000 applications a year.

Burke said he planned to go before the Legislative Council Nov. 11 with some kind of a program to tighten up the physical requirements for a driver's license.

Many who were in good health when they got their license now have disabilities ranging from poor vision to heart disease, Burke said. They are a potential danger on the highways.

Under Maryland's present system, drivers are not required to pass further tests after they once receive their permit.

Embezzlement Trial Delayed; Juror Ill

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP) — The embezzlement trial of Victor H. McSherry, Hagerstown bank teller, was delayed today when a juror became ill after being selected to hear the case.

Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut announced testimony would begin after another juror is selected Wednesday morning.

McSherry is accused of taking about $28,000 between April and December 1952 while he was working as a teller at the Nicodemus National Bank.

He has pleaded innocent.

Homemakers Study Slip Cover Fabrics

A Home Furnishing training meeting was conducted by Miss Florence Mason, home furnishing specialist of the University of Maryland, yesterday at the public library.

Explaining "Selection of Fabrics in Slip Covers," she discussed the points one should consider when buying fabrics for slip covers. The first fact to be considered is that the material is durable, tightly woven fabric or one with a smooth finish; secondly, that it is preshrunk, and she cautioned her audience to look for the Bureau of Standards label; and third, to be sure the material is color-fast.

She had quite a discussion of the design of the fabric for the covers, explaining that one should use one design in the room, and complete the room with textured fabric repeating one of the colors in the slip covers.

Speaking on colors, Miss Mason pointed out that colors should be chosen to go with the family's way of living, tending to the more informal life, the browns and greens of nature are preferable. She also showed several fabric samples, which she felt had good design and colors.

From the 28 women attending the meeting, 16 will go to the extension office in the Court House November 10, 11 and 12 to make slip covers, and later will give demonstrations at club meetings. Miss Mason will return for the slip cover school.

The three-tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom, centered the table with bouquets of fall flowers and candles at either end. Safety Drive For Children Is Launched By City Police

The Cumberland Police Department has launched a traffic safety campaign to protect children by distributing literature and posters to principals of local schools, both public and parochial.

Commissioner John J. Long said Raymond R. Johnston, head of the Traffic Bureau, is in charge of the program. There are 18 schools in the city.

Teachers were asked to conduct safety lessons for pupils and school patrols. Traffic hazards in school areas will be discussed, along with practices, problems and suggestions.

"To develop an attitude, which is evidenced by respect and gratitude toward the patrol, is a challenge to every teacher and parents in schools where safety patrols are in operation," Chief R. Emmett Flynn said, adding "When such an attitude exists there is little difficulty with the rule 'Obey Your Safety Patrol.'"

A survey conducted by the American Automobile Association shows that ten per cent of student accidents occurred while children were on their way to or from school. The remaining 90 per cent happened in the school building or on the school grounds.

Some of the mishaps to pupils, while they were under jurisdiction of the school, occurred in classrooms, auditoriums, vocational shops, gymnasiums, corridors and on stairways.

Crash Driver Given Jail Sentence

Charged with violating three state motor laws as the result of a hit-run accident Monday night at Virginia Avenue and Elder Street, Warren J. Flanagan, 213 Spruce Street, was given a 45-day jail term yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Police said Flanagan, who admitted driving a motor vehicle for two years without a license, surrendered yesterday morning for a hearing before Magistrate Donald W. Mason.

Officer E. Gordon Hite said the defendant's auto struck a car owned by William L. Soulsby, 1017 Virginia Avenue, about 10:20 p. m. A witness secured his license number but he could not be located after the mishap.

Flanagan was given a ten-day sentence in default of $10.75 for driving without a license; ten days for failing to stop after an accident, and 25 days in lieu of $25.75 on a reckless driving charge. He pleaded guilty.

Safety Drive For Children Is Launched By City Police

The Cumberland Police Department has launched a traffic safety campaign to protect children by distributing literature and posters to principals of local schools, both public and parochial.

Commissioner John J. Long said Raymond R. Johnston, head of the Traffic Bureau, is in charge of the program. There are 18 schools in the city.

Teachers were asked to conduct safety lessons for pupils and school patrols. Traffic hazards in school areas will be discussed, along with practices, problems and suggestions.

"To develop an attitude, which is evidenced by respect and gratitude toward the patrol, is a challenge to every teacher and parents in schools where safety patrols are in operation," Chief R. Emmett Flynn said, adding "When such an attitude exists there is little difficulty with the rule 'Obey Your Safety Patrol.'"

A survey conducted by the American Automobile Association shows that ten per cent of student accidents occurred while children were on their way to or from school. The remaining 90 per cent happened in the school building or on the school grounds.

Some of the mishaps to pupils, while they were under jurisdiction of the school, occurred in classrooms, auditoriums, vocational shops, gymnasiums, corridors and on stairways.

Crash Driver Given Jail Sentence

Charged with violating three state motor laws as the result of a hit-run accident Monday night at Virginia Avenue and Elder Street, Warren J. Flanagan, 213 Spruce Street, was given a 45-day jail term yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Police said Flanagan, who admitted driving a motor vehicle for two years without a license, surrendered yesterday morning for a hearing before Magistrate Donald W. Mason.

Officer E. Gordon Hite said the defendant's auto struck a car owned by William L. Soulsby, 1017 Virginia Avenue, about 10:20 p. m. A witness secured his license number but he could not be located after the mishap.

Flanagan was given a ten-day sentence in default of $10.75 for driving without a license; ten days for failing to stop after an accident, and 25 days in lieu of $25.75 on a reckless driving charge. He pleaded guilty.

Veteran Realtors To Be Honored

Four veteran realtors, each with 50 years or more service in Cumberland real estate circles, will be honored tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The Cumberland Real Estate Board will have as honored guests Charles G. Holzshu, David Miller, M. D. Reinhart and John G. Wiebel.

Holzshu started in the real estate business with his brother in the J. H. Holzshu Company in 1895 and he remains today with that firm.

Miller started with the D. P. Miller Company in 1897 and like Holzshu remains in the same office today.

Reinhart began his career in the office of William Pearre in 1899, later becoming a partner of the former congressman and finally opening his own firm.

Wiebel was first with the J. H. Holzshu Company and later formed his own organization. He is a partner in Wiebel and Workmeister.

Gifts will be presented the realtors who represent over 200 years of service in the tri-state area.

B&O Dividend Income Drops

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad received only about $400,000 in dividends on its holding of Western Maryland Railway first preferred stock during September.

This is compared with $1,150,000 from that source during the same month last year. It is expected that before the end of the current year, this decrease will be fully made up through the payment of a subsequent dividend, the company said.

The smaller Western Maryland disbursement, in line that company's pending recapitalization, was one of the principal causes of a decrease of $1,121,573 in B. & O.'s September net income, which totaled $2,505,633. The other cause was a decline of $453,513 in gross operating revenues, which amounted to $3^,6^4,225 for September.

Gross for the fi . ine months, at $351 966,216, was the largest for any corresponding period in B ". O, history, and an increase of $25,876,-357 over the similar 1952 period. Net income for the nine months was $21,027,722, after fixed and contingent interest but before capital and sinking funds, an increase of $3,111,398 over a year earlier.

County Garage Being Built

Erection of a garage building at Knapps Meadow near Lonaconing for use by the County Roads Department is underway.

The structure will house equipment and tools used by county roads workers in the Georges Creek area. The building is 28 by 40 feet and is the third one erected in outlying sections to provide a more efficient schedule for county road workers.

Previously branch garages were built at Little Orleans and the Oldtown section. A similar type building was also erected at the main garage property on Franklin Street.

The use of these branch garages eliminates the time formerly required to travel to Cumberland and then to the area in which road work was underway. In winter time the strategic location of the garages will also enable the Roads Department to start removal of snow much quicker than previously.

Five Area Men Enlist In Marines

The five men signed up for four years service and have been assigned to Parris Island, S. C., for training.

Sgt. Phyllis Emerick, a recruiter for the women's branch of the Marine Corps, will be in Cumberland on November 4, 5 and 6 to interview young women interested in joining the service.

Herath Heads County Forum

The Allegany County Forum, organized recently for the purpose of enabling residents of Allegany County to gain a better understanding of proposals, laws, business and industry affecting their everyday life, has announced the election of officers for a six-month period.

They are C. L. Herath, president; W. W. Pealer, vice president; Ernest B. Treat, secretary, and J. Wallace Close, secretary.

The board of directors includes Thomas B. Finan, Karl W. Bachman, Arthur Hoffa, Chelsie A. Liller and John Barton.

The forum's aim is to bring about a definite understanding of facts concerning subjects relative to the public's welfare by means of special programs.

The forum is non-political and non-partisian with membership by invitation. About 50 business and professional men are expected to attend the next dinner meeting Thursday, November 12, at the Shrine Country Club at 6:30 p. m.

The November 12 program will center around talks to be given by men who have taken the initiative in two current city proposals.

Appeals Board Gets Zoning Permit Case

An appeal has been filed with the Zoning Board by First Church of God which is seeking to construct a parsonage at the Corner of Delaware and Lagonda Streets.

In a Residential B district, the $10,000 building does not have enough front yard and no rear yard.

Located on Lot 50, the building lot fronts on Delaware Street but the parsonage will front on Lagonda Street. It will have a concrete block foundation, frame walls and measure 34 by 44 feet.

Hearing Is Set Nov. 6 For H. J. Rosenmarkel

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said yesterday that a warrant has been issued by Governor Lausche of Ohio to the sheriff of the Ohio county in which Willoughby is located for the extradition of Harold J. Rosenmarkel of this city.

Fletcher explained that the legal procedure calls for a hearing before a court in Willoughby at which the court will determine if the proper proceedings have been followed and then make a ruling on turning Rosenmarkel over to authorities here.

In the event the court rules in favor of remanding Rosenmarkel to Allegany County then the defendant has the right to appeal to a higher court. The hearing in Willoughby is tentatively set for November 6, Fletcher said. The extradition of Rosenmarkel could be delayed for several months by various appeals to higher courts, he added.

Mr. and Mrs. Duke were honored at a farewell party in the school cafeteria following the meeting. Gifts were presented them by the PTA.

A part of the program was a talk by Mrs. Aden Everstine, psychological worker for the Department of Health, on social development of children.

What other cars may give you next year

4-Way Power Seat—Touch a button and you move up, down, back, or forth automatically—to any position you wish. Only Mercury in the popular-price class has this great new aid to driving ease and safety. Other cars won't have it for months, if at all.

Power Steering—Makes parking and turning 4 times easier. Gives you greater car control and safety in the event of a blowout. Nothing new to learn. No chance of oversteering, because Mercury's power steering maintains that vital feel of the road.

Power Brakes—They operate with about the same toe pressure as you now use on the accelerator. They're safer, faster, too, because your reaction time is less. You can pivot from the accelerator to the lower, closer brake pedal without raising your foot.

B&O Dividend Income Drops

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad received only about $400,000 in dividends on its holding of Western Maryland Railway first preferred stock during September.

This is compared with $1,150,000 from that source during the same month last year. It is expected that before the end of the current year, this decrease will be fully made up through the payment of a subsequent dividend, the company said.

The smaller Western Maryland disbursement, in line that company's pending recapitalization, was one of the principal causes of a decrease of $1,121,573 in B. & O.'s September net income, which totaled $2,505,633. The other cause was a decline of $453,513 in gross operating revenues, which amounted to $3?,6?4,225 for September.

Gross for the fi . ine months, at $351 966,215, was the largest for any corresponding period in B ?. O. history, and an increase of $25,876,-357 over the similar 1952 period. Net income for the nine months was $21,027,722, after fixed and contingent interest but before capital and sinking funds, an increase of $3,111,398 over a year earlier.

County Garage Being Built

Erection of a garage building at Knapps Meadow near Lonaconing for use by the County Roads Department is underway.

The structure will house equipment and tools used by county roads workers in the Georges Creek area. The building is 28 by 40 feet and is the third one erected in outlying sections to provide a more efficient schedule for county road workers.

Previously branch garages were built at Little Orleans and the Oldtown section. A similar type building was also erected at the main garage property on Franklin Street.

The use of these branch garages eliminates the time formerly required to travel to Cumberland and then to the area in which road work was underway. In winter time the strategic location of the garages will also enable the Roads Department to start removal of snow much quicker than previously.

Five Area Men Enlist In Marines

They are David Z. DuVall, RD 2, city; Edward H. Getson, of Lonaconing, and Ronald O. Sherman, Robert F. Raines and Harrison L. Dove, all of Moorefield.

The five men signed up for four years service and have been assigned to Parris Island, S. C., for training.

Sgt. Phyllis Emerick, a recruiter for the women's branch of the Marine Corps, will be in Cumberland on November 4, 5 and 6 to interview young women interested in joining the service.

WASHINGTON D. C.—A reliable report has been made to the White House indicating that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' popularity with American citizens exceeds that of any previous secretary in two decades.

This may be the end of a trend of declining popularity and growing suspicion of the State Department—a trend partly due to the fact that it has never dealt directly with Americans, but always with foreigners, and hence was subject to mistrust.

There were other reasons, too. Newspaper cartoonists always draw pictures of diplomats wearing striped pants and cutaway coats—though the thousands of people in America's foreign service are plain Americans like you and me. The fact that they dress up on important occasions when they want to put their best foot forward, just as we do, doesn't mean that they are higher up the scale economically or socially.

Then, too, there was an increasing inability on the part of our diplomats to admit it when they made mistakes, and they made a good many in the past 20 years. Congressional committees had to dig into these matters because members of Congress felt the American voters wanted to know what was really going on.

Finally, there was the growing problem of security and loyalty in the State Department. One of the first things President Eisenhower did was tell Mr. Dulles to make sure every one of his employes was 100 per cent American. With former FBI agent Scott McLeod as the new security officer, we know now that this has been done.

Few Americans realize how important the work of the State Department is to them. Every move that is made in foreign affairs has a direct effect on our economy at home. The more friends we have overseas the more foreign trade we can enter into, and that means more jobs and greater prosperity. And more friends, of course, means fewer wars and greater security and time to look after our more important problems at home.

When Thomas Jefferson organized the State Department in 1790, he had just four clerks and a translator to help him. Today thousands of State Department employes are scattered in nearly 300 places around the world. Now that they know we have greater confidence in what they are doing than ever before, you can bet that they'll work harder in the interest of their nation.

Compatible Color TV Will Be Tested Nov. 3

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—Compatible color television will be transmitted coast to coast Nov. 3 in a closed circuit demonstration, Board Chairman David Sarnoff of the Radio Corporation of America has announced.

A program originated by the National Broadcasting Co. here will be sent over the Bell Telephone System's microwave radio relay transcontinental hookup to a special audience assembled at NBC's new television center at Burbank, Calif., Sarnoff said.

Color signals have been put on the transcontinental network previously, but it has not been adjusted to relay them in their entirety as will be done in the forthcoming NBC demonstration.

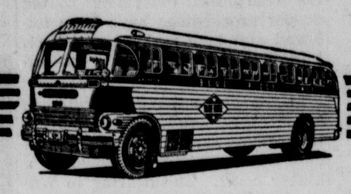

The compatible color is on technical standards which the Federal Communications Commission says it will adopt, possibly by year end, for regular commercial use.

Tom Fool Is Retired; Beagle Field Trials Open Here Saturday

Copped Eight 1953 Stake Races, Earned Total Of $570,165

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—Tom Fool, Greentree Stable's great handicap star, has run his last race. His owners announced today the 4-year-old handicap champion would skip the $75,000 Empire Gold Cup at Jamaica Saturday, and would be retired to the stud.

Tom Fool, one of the best race horses seen in this country in many years, has been undefeated in his last 11 races, 10 this year.

He capped a brilliant career Saturday by running away from Navy Page and Alerted in the $50,000 Pimlico Special, winning by eight lengths in track record time. It was announced then Tom Fool probably would race once more, in the gold cup.

The seventh leading money winning horse in the world with $570,165 in earnings, Tom Fool won eight stakes race in 1953. In addition to the Pimlico Special, they were the Metropolitan, Suburban, Carter, Brooklyn, Wilson, Whitney and Sysonby.

"Our early plans for Tom Fool

"Our early plans for Tom Fool called for his retirement after the running of the Pimlico Special," said John Hay Whitney and his sister, Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, Greentree owners.

"On the strength of his record-breaking performance last Saturday we are returning to those plans. We are proud of the horse and we feel that nothing could be added to his reputation by running him again."

Tom Fool stepped the mile and three sixteenths of the Pimlico Special in 1:55 4-5, under a tight hold much of the time by Jockey Red Atkinson.

Tom Fool, a bay son of Menow-Gaga by Bull Dog, was bred by Duval A. Headley of Manchester Farm, Lexington, Ky., and was sold to Greentree for a reported price of some $20,000 to $30,000.

Missed 1952 Derby

He was voted the 1951 2-year-old champion, but missed the 1952 Kentucky Derby and other 3-year-old classics because of a virus and ever that kept him idle for several months.

Tom Fool was to have met Native Dancer, sensational 3-year-old champion, in the Sysonby mile and the Pimlico Special, but the Dancer suffered a foot injury and was retired for the season in September.

In 30 starts, Tom Fool won 21 races, was second seven times, with one third. The only time he was out of the money was when he was not fully recovered from his illness, in a race at Chicago. He was prepping then for the Arlington Classic.

Suffers Arm Fracture After Being Tossed

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 27 (AP)—Jockey Oliver Cutshaw, a leading rider in Maryland's fall racing program, was thrown from his mount in the third race today suffering a fractured arm and face cuts.

The fracture was expected to sideline him for the rest of the season.

Cutshaw, who rode 14 winners at Pimlico's recent meeting for runner-up jockey honors to Nick Shuk, was aboard Big Sweet in the mile-and-a-sixteenth third race of Laurel's second-day program.

The horse was in close quarters along the rail just after passing the three-quarter pole and appeared to stumble and toss the jockey over his head.

Cutshaw leaped to his feet after the field passed, but then fell to the track and was carried from the course by attendants. After treatment at the first aid center he was taken to Prince George's County Hospital at Cheverly for further examination and treatment.

Dressen Gets 3-Year Pact

Will Receive $32,500 Annually At Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 27 (AP)—Chuck Dressen, who couldn't get a three-year contract from Brooklyn after leading the Dodgers to two National League pennants, signed today for that period of time with the Oakland Baseball Club of the Pacific Coast League.

While photographers flashlights popped and newsmen asked questions, Dressen declared he had no regret at leaving the major leagues.

"I will get just as much money here as I did back there and there will be a lot less grief," Dressen said.

Dressen will become the general manager of the club as well as its field manager.

He will take over many of the executive duties now handled by Laws, who will remain president of the club.

Dressen said his salary would be $32,500 a year, and he probably will be allowed to purchase stock in the Oakland club.

Dressen managed the Oaks in 1949-50, winning the pennant in the latter year, and went from here to Brooklyn. Oakland finished seventh this year.

Dressen said he thought Brooklyn would win the pennant again next year.

As You Were

Wonder how many persons remember this four sports star who won All-Maryland football honors almost forty years ago?

He tipped the beam at only 145 in the days he was a gridiron luminary and he was regarded as a brainy field general, a great broken field runner and a good drop kicker.

His home was in South Cumberland and he starred as a sprinter on the cinder paths, an infielder in baseball, quarterback in football and was an accurate basketball shot when he attended Allegany County High School on Greene Street.

In 1912 he quarterbacked and captained ACHS to the city football championship as the Blue and White defeated Allegany County Academy, 13-0. Somerville Nicholson was fullback and captain of the ACA team that year. Other players on the high school squad were Burkhart, L. Wilson, Dyche, Lovenstein, Burch, Walker, R. Wilson, Spriggs and Willison. The Academy's lineup included the Macfarlanes, Don and Grant, Kelso, Mays, Webster, Cale, Neff, Ward, Sloan, Pyles and Hoffman. The player pictured here also was signal barker for ACHS in 1913.

This all-around athlete gained his greatest fame as a football player at Western Maryland College. He was so outstanding at the Westminster school he was voted All-Maryland quarterback in both 1915 and 1916.

During the 1914-1915 basketball season he was a member of the Manager William H. 'Uncle Bill" Lewis' Knights of Goodfellowship (KOG) quint that won the City League championship.

Can you name this outstanding athlete of yesteryear?

Holly Keller is the name. He was dubbed the "Mighty Mite" in his days as an athlete. Keller settled in Florida and once owned a business school at Jacksonville. He is still believed to be a resident of Florida. The picture was taken in 1915 when Holly played for the K.O.G.

Poholsky Joins Cards

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27 (AP) — Tom Poholsky, young right handed pitcher, has been released from the Army and returned to the St. Louis Cardinals' active list today.

Before joining the service in 1951 Poholsky had a 7-13 record for the redbirds. He played with Fort Belvoir, Va., team while in service.

PLAYERS OF THE WEEK — Bill Murphy, tackle, left, and Stanley Teets, halfback, right, are the players of the week selected by the K. of C. committee in recognition of their stellar performances in Fort Hill's 0-0 tie with Hagerstown here last Friday night. Teets was chosen back-of-the-week for the second time this season. Stanley starred on offense and defense against the Hubs. Other backs named this season have been Bob Kirtley and Eddie Joyce, Allegany; Denny Shuck, LaSalle, and Earl Grove and Bob Andrews, Fort Hill. Murphy, a tower of strength on the line in Friday's scoreless affair, becomes the seventh lineman-of-the-week.

Dressen Gets 3-Year Pact

Will Receive $32,500 Annually At Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 27 (AP)—Chuck Dressen, who couldn't get a three-year contract from Brooklyn after leading the Dodgers to two National League pennants, signed today for that period of time with the Oakland Baseball Club of the Pacific Coast League.

While photographers flashlights popped and newsmen asked questions, Dressen declared he had no regret at leaving the major leagues.

"I will get just as much money here as I did back there and there will be a lot less grief," Dressen said.

Dressen will become the general manager of the club as well as its field manager.

He will take over many of the executive duties now handled by Laws, who will remain president of the club.

Dressen said his salary would be $32,500 a year, and he probably will be allowed to purchase stock in the Oakland club.

Dressen managed the Oaks in 1949-50, winning the pennant in the latter year, and went from here to Brooklyn. Oakland finished seventh this year.

Dressen said he thought Brooklyn would win the pennant again next year.

As You Were

Wonder how many persons remember this four sports star who won All-Maryland football honors almost forty years ago?

He tipped the beam at only 145 in the days he was a gridiron luminary and he was regarded as a brainy field general, a great broken field runner and a good drop kicker.

His home was in South Cumberland and he starred as a sprinter on the cinder paths, an infielder in baseball, quarterback in football and was an accurate basketball shot when he attended Allegany County High School on Greene Street.

In 1912 he quarterbacked and captained ACHS to the city football championship as the Blue and White defeated Allegany County Academy, 13-0. Somerville Nicholson was fullback and captain of the ACA team that year. Other players on the high school squad were Burkhart, L. Wilson, Dyche, Lovenstein, Burch, Walker, R. Wilson, Spriggs and Willison. The Academy's lineup included the Macfarlanes, Don and Grant, Kelso, Mays, Webster, Cale, Neff, Ward, Sloan, Pyles and Hoffman. The player pictured here also was signal barker for ACHS in 1913.

This all-around athlete gained his greatest fame as a football player at Western Maryland College. He was so outstanding at the Westminster school he was voted All-Maryland quarterback in both 1915 and 1916.

During the 1914-1915 basketball season he was a member of the Manager William H. 'Uncle Bill" Lewis' Knights of Goodfellowship (KOG) quint that won the City League championship.

Can you name this outstanding athlete of yesteryear?

Holly Keller is the name. He was dubbed the "Mighty Mite" in his days as an athlete. Keller settled in Florida and once owned a business school at Jacksonville. He is still believed to be a resident of Florida. The picture was taken in 1915 when Holly played for the K.O.G.

Poholsky Joins Cards

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27 (AP) — Tom Poholsky, young right handed pitcher, has been released from the Army and returned to the St. Louis Cardinals' active list today.

Before joining the service in 1951 Poholsky had a 7-13 record for the redbirds. He played with Fort Belvoir, Va., team while in service.

PLAYERS OF THE WEEK — Bill Murphy, tackle, left, and Stanley Teets, halfback, right, are the players of the week selected by the K. of C. committee in recognition of their stellar performances in Fort Hill's 0-0 tie with Hagerstown here last Friday night. Teets was chosen back-of-the-week for the second time this season. Stanley starred on offense and defense against the Hubs. Other backs named this season have been Bob Kirtley and Eddie Joyce, Allegany; Denny Shuck, LaSalle, and Earl Grove and Bob Andrews, Fort Hill. Murphy, a tower of strength on the line in Friday's scoreless affair, becomes the seventh lineman-of-the-week.

Bernie Faloney Tops Conference In Yards Gained

Maryland Back Has 498 For 98 Plays

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 27 (AP)—Quarterback Bernie Faloney of Maryland played less than half a game in the 30-0 victory over Miami last Friday night, but still retained his total offensive leadership in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Faloney brought his total yardage gained to 498 in 98 plays, five yards a play, in statistics released today.

Johnny Gramling of South Carolina, who will be opposed to Faloney Saturday, took the runner-up spot away from Eddie West of North Carolina State. Gramling has gained 469 yards in 77 plays and West 468 in 130.

Another on Maryland's undefeated squad, left halfback Chet Hanulak, also kept setting the pace in rushing. He carried only six times for 50 yards against Miami to hike his total in six games to 389 on 45 tries, an 8.7 average.

Gramling is the leading conference passer on 31 completed out of 58 for a 53.4 percentage. His aerials have gained 501 yards and scored three touchdowns.

West trails Gramling with 28 completions on 71 attempts for 399 yards.

Bob Ondilla of Wake Forest hung on to his leadership in pass receiving with 11 for 159 yards and two touchdowns. Clyde Bennett of South Carolina has caught two less for 154 yards and two scores.

North Carolina's Dick Lackey leads the punters, averaging 43 yards on 18 kicks. Faloney didn't have to punt against Miami and his previous 40.1 average on 12 punts was enough to keep him in second place.

Rogel Of Steelers Has Fractured Nose

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers said today fullback Frenny Rogel fractured his nose in the 31-14 victory over the Green Bay Packers in a National Football League contest Saturday.

Demoiselle Stakes Set For Jamaica

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—The 2-year-old misses will have their day at Jamaica tomorrow, with a dozen juvenile fillies named for the $72,750 Demoiselle Stakes.

Most of the stars of the 2-year-old filly division excepting one—Mrs. George D. Widener's Evening Out, have been named for the 39th running of the mile and one sixteenth event.

Evening Out, who won five stakes races and was beaten only by the colt, Porterhouse, in the Belmont Futurity injured a knee yesterday and is out for the rest of the season.

In her absence, the Demoiselle shapes up as a rather wide open battle, with Clear Dawn from John Galbreath's Darby Dan farm the probable favorite.

Redskins Crippled For Browns' Game

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Washington Redskins got some mighty disheartening news today: Four of their best backs are out with injuries and probably will miss Sunday's game with the Cleveland Browns.

Three of the backs are defensive players, Chuck Drazenovich, Dick Alban and Johnny Williams. The fourth, Leon Heath, is the club's number one offensive fullback.

Jack Cloud, the former William and Mary player, will be the offensive fullback against the Browns, with a venerable gentleman named Bill Dudley moving into the defensive backfield.

Rocky Castellani To Fight Laurent

CLEVELAND, Oct. 27 (AP)—Rocky Castellani is expected to give his all tomorrow night against Frenchman Mickey Laurent to strengthen his chances for a shot at Bobo Olson's new middleweight crown.

But the Cleveland boxer will get plenty of opposition from Laurent, known as a spoiler.

In his three fights this year, Laurent drew twice and lost once. His total of 42 fights includes 28 victories, nine of them knockouts; nine losses and five draws.

Castellani, criticized by the experts as a "hit-and-hold" technician, is nevertheless recognized as one of the fastest-punching boxers in his weight, and has knocked out eight opponents. He goes into tomorrow night's 10-rounder at Cleveland Arena with a record of 45 victories, five defeats and five draws.

HOPES TO BOWL 2000

NEW YORK — (AP) — Frank Santore, who holds the American Bowling Congress singles and all-events championships, has one big ABC ambition. "Someday I hope to roll 2,000 for nine games," says Santore. When he won his first ABC title at Columbus, Ohio in 1950 he totaled 1981 pins.

Shirai Wins, 30,000 Yawn

Champion Bests Allen In Dismal 15-Rounder

TOKYO, Wednesday, Oct. 28 (AP)—World flyweight champion Yoshio Shirai of Japan flicked and jabbed his way past the challenge of Terry Allen last night in a dismal 15-round title fight. The crowd of 30,000 yawned at the lack of action.

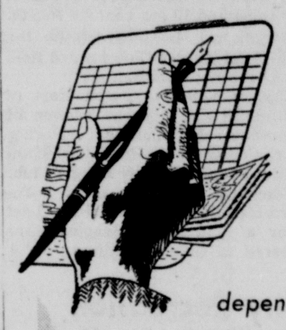

The two judges and the referee gave the decision to the lanky champion over the London mite by a margin that, in Japan's complicated scoring system was decisive.

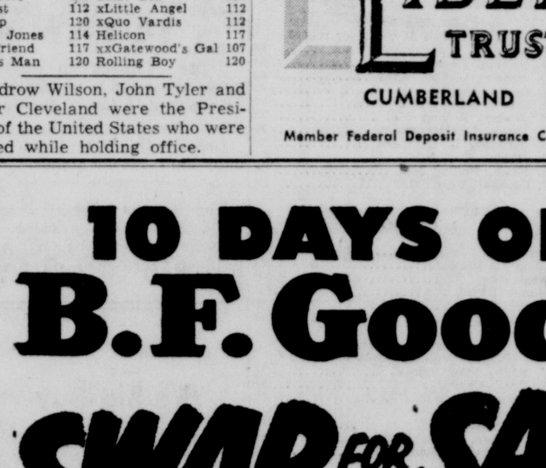

Shirai opened up in the last three rounds. He reddened the face of the chalk-white challenger but until then the referee was the busiest man in the ring as he unsnarled the two tiny opponents.

Bernie Faloney Tops Conference In Yards Gained

Maryland Back Has 498 For 98 Plays

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 27 (AP)—Quarterback Bernie Faloney of Maryland played less than half a game in the 30-0 victory over Miami last Friday night, but still retained his total offensive leadership in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Faloney brought his total yardage gained to 498 in 98 plays, five yards a play, in statistics released today.

Johnny Gramling of South Carolina, who will be opposed to Faloney Saturday, took the runner-up spot away from Eddie West of North Carolina State. Gramling has gained 469 yards in 77 plays and West 468 in 130.

Another on Maryland's undefeated squad, left halfback Chet Hanulak, also kept setting the pace in rushing. He carried only six times for 50 yards against Miami to hike his total in six games to 389 on 45 tries, an 8.7 average.

Gramling is the leading conference passer on 31 completed out of 58 for a 53.4 percentage. His aerials have gained 501 yards and scored three touchdowns.

West trails Gramling with 28 completions on 71 attempts for 399 yards.

Bob Ondilla of Wake Forest hung on to his leadership in pass receiving with 11 for 159 yards and two touchdowns. Clyde Bennett of South Carolina has caught two less for 154 yards and two scores.

North Carolina's Dick Lackey leads the punters, averaging 43 yards on 18 kicks. Faloney didn't have to punt against Miami and his previous 40.1 average on 12 punts was enough to keep him in second place.

Rogel Of Steelers Has Fractured Nose

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers said today fullback Frenny Rogel fractured his nose in the 31-14 victory over the Green Bay Packers in a National Football League contest Saturday.

However, the former Penn State star expects to drill with the squad tomorrow in preparation for the clash with the Philadelphia Eagles next Sunday.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Oct. 27 (AP)—After welterweight Billy Wooding outpointed Eric Skidmore last night, he complained of a "toothache."

Demoiselle Stakes Set For Jamaica

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—The 2-year-old misses will have their day at Jamaica tomorrow, with a dozen juvenile fillies named for the $72,750 Demoiselle Stakes.

Most of the stars of the 2-year-old filly division excepting one—Mrs. George D. Widener's Evening Out, have been named for the 39th running of the mile and one sixteenth event.

Evening Out, who won five stakes races and was beaten only by the colt, Porterhouse, in the Belmont Futurity injured a knee yesterday and is out for the rest of the season.

Redskins Crippled For Browns' Game

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Washington Redskins got some mighty disheartening news today: Four of their best backs are out with injuries and probably will miss Sunday's game with the Cleveland Browns.

Three of the backs are defensive players, Chuck Drazenovich, Dick Alban and Johnny Williams. The fourth, Leon Heath, is the club's number one offensive fullback.

Jack Cloud, the former William and Mary player, will be the offensive fullback against the Browns, with a venerable gentleman named Bill Dudley moving into the defensive backfield.

Rocky Castellani To Fight Laurent

CLEVELAND, Oct. 27 (AP)—Rocky Castellani is expected to give his all tomorrow night against Frenchman Mickey Laurent to strengthen his chances for a shot at Bobo Olson's new middleweight crown.

But the Cleveland boxer will get plenty of opposition from Laurent, known as a spoiler.

In his three fights this year, Laurent drew twice and lost once. His total of 42 fights includes 28 victories, nine of them knockouts; nine losses and five draws.

Castellani, criticized by the experts as a "hit-and-hold" technician, is nevertheless recognized as one of the fastest-punching boxers in his weight, and has knocked out eight opponents. He goes into tomorrow night's 10-rounder at Cleveland Arena with a record of 45 victories, five defeats and five draws.

HOPES TO BOWL 2000

NEW YORK — (AP) — Frank Santore, who holds the American Bowling Congress singles and all-events championships, has one big ABC ambition. "Someday I hope to roll 2,000 for nine games," says Santore. When he won his first ABC title at Columbus, Ohio in 1950 he totaled 1981 pins.

Shirai Wins, 30,000 Yawn

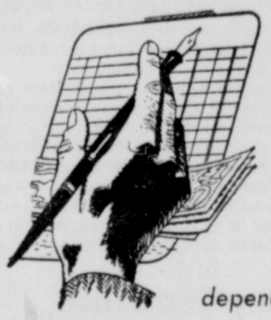

Champion Bests Allen In Dismal 15-Rounder

TOKYO, Wednesday, Oct. 28 (AP)—World flyweight champion Yoshio Shirai of Japan flicked and jabbed his way past the challenge of Terry Allen last night in a dismal 15-round title fight. The crowd of 30,000 yawned at the lack of action.

The two judges and the referee gave the decision to the lanky champion over the London mite by a margin that, in Japan's complicated scoring system was decisive.

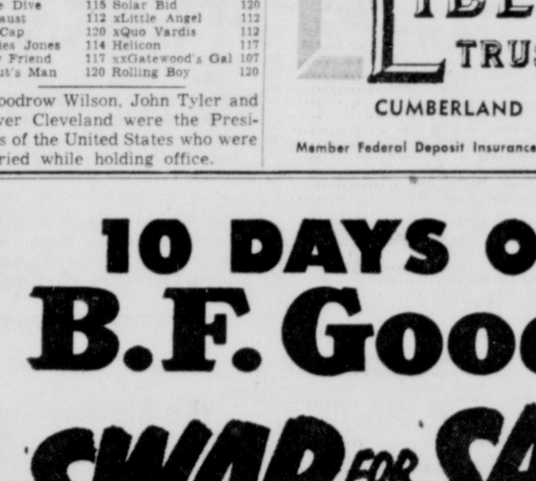

Shirai opened up in the last three rounds. He reddened the face of the chalk-white challenger but until then the referee was the busiest man in the ring as he unsnarled the two tiny opponents.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27—(INS)—"Shane" really did it for Van Heflin. He's had so many scripts thrown at him since the western hit that he is in the enviable position of picking and choosing—quite an accomplishment in these lean days.

Out of the passel of properties, Van has decided on "The Raid" for Leonard Goldstein. It's an historical story of the Confederate Army at St. Albans, and will be made in technicolor and wide screen.

The first of the four beauties signed by Victor Saville for Mickey Spillane's story, "The Long Wait," is Mrs. Victor Orsatti.

She'll play one of the four girls who must have the same measurements as Marilyn Monroe—hip, bust and waist. One is a honey blonde; one is a platinum blonde; one a redhead, and the other a brunette.

Still another Hollywood actor has been snagged for Broadway. I mean, Wendell Corey—just signed by Kay and Mike Kanin to co-star with Celeste Holm in "His And Hers."

If this show clicks as well as others with Hollywood names—"Tea And Sympathy" (with Deborah Kerr); "Teahouse Of The August Moon" (with David Wayne); "Kind Sir" (Charles Boyer and Mary Martin); and "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" (heading east with Henry Fonda, John Hodiak and Lloyd Nolan)—he can take a bow.

I can tell you exactly what happened when Frank Sinatra did not meet the plane bringing Ava Gardner to New York. He didn't know she was coming—he didn't even know she was in New York until a friend told him.

"How could I meet her," Frankie said to me, "when I didn't know she was planing in? Our whole trouble started because I couldn't stay with her in Europe until she flew home. I had a show to do and I had to rehearse."

Frankie finishes at the Sands Hotel tomorrow night and goes directly to New York to do a few pre-scenes for "Waterfront," which will be filmed at Hoboken, where he grew up. Then he comes back to do the Durante show.

Rita Hayworth and Dick Haymes check in at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas tonight. Dick has his hearing tomorrow morning before the immigration board, and Rita will wait for him in Vegas.

Over the weekend I met Edie and Billy Goetz and the Arthur Hornblows walking about the grounds of the Sands in Las Vegas. They were with Irving Lazar who told me he had tested Lee Sharon, pretty blonde girl playing in "Latin Quarter" at the Desert Inn. She's wanted for a movie at MGM.

Vivian Gosden, 20-year-old daughter of Freeman Gosden (Amos of "Amos And Andy") is being married in Santa Barbara on December 6 to Richard Jackson, of the Denver Continental Oil Company. Only members of the family will be present at the wedding.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Does your walk draw the eyes of others to you in admiration the moment you start propelling yourself across a room or down a street? It should—and it will if you train your muscles to act naturally, keep your coordination in high and eradicate faulty habits.

But you will never be able to walk naturally or coordinate smoothly if your feet are not comfortably shod. One of the most serious detriments to any woman's beauty and grace in motion is shoes that are too small. The sad part is that a woman wears too-small shoes because she thinks they contribute to her attractiveness!

Pain In Vain

Yet, I don't know anyone who can look at a woman's feet and tell whether she is wearing a "size eight A" or a "size seven B". Others may note that you have a small foot, a large foot, a wide foot or a narrow foot but that's the only impression an observer gets. This proves how utterly futile it is to suffer the discomforts imposed by a half or a whole size shorter or narrower shoe than you need.

If any of these are yours, see a foot doctor immediately. Much of the discomfort can be relieved by the use of chemical substances and adhesive tape as well as strategic padding. Serious dislocation and distortion of the bones of the foot should be administered to by a bone specialist.

Beauty Insurance

In every case, future comfort and permanment relief can only be had through wearing properly-fitted shoes. Does this mean low heels? Certainly not all of the time. But anyone who expects to stand or walk on heels that are higher than an inch and one-half for long hours each day cannot expect to be free from foot problems. The path of wisdom and beauty lies in suiting your heels and your shoes to your activity and the occasion.

Today the loveliest feet are wearing handsome, crispyly-tailored, low-heeled shoes much of the time. Shoe designers are fashioning them in all colors and of the finest leathers to give you foot flattery.

Take advantage of these styles. They're your best insurance for foot beauty—and a walk that wins with lithesome, gliding grace!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27—(INS)—"Shane" really did it for Van Heflin. He's had so many scripts thrown at him since the western hit that he is in the enviable position of picking and choosing—quite an accomplishment in these lean days.

Out of the passel of properties, Van has decided on "The Raid" for Leonard Goldstein. It's an historical story of the Confederate Army at St. Albans, and will be made in technicolor and wide screen.

The first of the four beauties signed by Victor Saville for Mickey Spillane's story, "The Long Wait," is Mrs. Victor Orsatti.

She'll play one of the four girls who must have the same measurements as Marilyn Monroe—hip, bust and waist. One is a honey blonde; one is a platinum blonde; one a redhead, and the other a brunette.

Pat Orsatti, who formerly was Pat Van Ivers, is a very beautiful blonde and her role is that of a gangster's moll. The gangster is played by Gene Evans.

Still another Hollywood actor has been snagged for Broadway. I mean, Wendell Corey—just signed by Kay and Mike Kanin to co-star with Celeste Holm in "His And Hers."

If this show clicks as well as others with Hollywood names—"Tea And Sympathy" (with Deborah Kerr); "Teahouse Of The August Moon" (with David Wayne); "Kind Sir" (Charles Boyer and Mary Martin); and "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" (heading east with Henry Fonda, John Hodiak and Lloyd Nolan)—he can take a bow.

Several years ago it was nothing but disaster for movie stars on Broadway with Ann Sothern, Robert Cummings, Ginger Rogers and others closing as fast as they opened.

I can tell you exactly what happened when Frank Sinatra did not meet the plane bringing Ava Gardner to New York. He didn't know she was coming—he didn't even know she was in New York until a friend told him.

"How could I meet her," Frankie said to me, "when I didn't know she was planing in? Our whole trouble started because I couldn't stay with her in Europe until she flew home. I had a show to do and I had to rehearse."

Frankie finishes at the Sands Hotel tomorrow night and goes directly to New York to do a few pre-scenes for "Waterfront," which will be filmed at Hoboken, where he grew up. Then he comes back to do the Durante show.

Rita Hayworth and Dick Haymes check in at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas tonight. Dick has his hearing tomorrow morning before the immigration board, and Rita will wait for him in Vegas.

Rumors are that Disc Jockey Bob McLaughlin and his bride, Jeri Sullivan, aren't seeing eye to eye.

Over the weekend I met Edie and Billy Goetz and the Arthur Hornblows walking about the grounds of the Sands in Las Vegas. They were with Irving Lazar who told me he had tested Lee Sharon, pretty blonde girl playing in "Latin Quarter" at the Desert Inn. She's wanted for a movie at MGM.

Vivian Gosden, 20-year-old daughter of Freeman Gosden (Amos of "Amos And Andy") is being married in Santa Barbara on December 6 to Richard Jackson, of the Denver Continental Oil Company. Only members of the family will be present at the wedding.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Does your walk draw the eyes of others to you in admiration the moment you start propelling yourself across a room or down a street? It should—and it will if you train your muscles to act naturally, keep your coordination in high and eradicate faulty habits.

But you will never be able to walk naturally or coordinate smoothly if your feet are not comfortably shod. One of the most serious detriments to any woman's beauty and grace in motion is shoes that are too small. The sad part is that a woman wears too-small shoes because she thinks they contribute to her attractiveness!

Pain In Vain

Yet, I don't know anyone who can look at a woman's feet and tell whether she is wearing a "size eight A" or a "size seven B". Others may note that you have a small foot, a large foot, a wide foot or a narrow foot but that's the only impression an observer gets. This proves how utterly futile it is to suffer the discomforts imposed by a half or a whole size shorter or narrower shoe than you need.

Furthermore, squeezing the foot into a small shoe will actually cause bunions, calluses, plantar warts, thickened and hardened layers of skin and metatarsal problems.

If any of these are yours, see a foot doctor immediately. Much of the discomfort can be relieved by the use of chemical substances and adhesive tape as well as strategic padding. Serious dislocation and distortion of the bones of the foot should be administered to by a bone specialist.

Beauty Insurance

In every case, future comfort and permanment relief can only be had through wearing properly-fitted shoes. Does this mean low heels? Certainly not all of the time. But anyone who expects to stand or walk on heels that are higher than an inch and one-half for long hours each day cannot expect to be free from foot problems. The path of wisdom and beauty lies in suiting your heels and your shoes to your activity and the occasion.

Today the loveliest feet are wearing handsome, crispyly-tailored, low-heeled shoes much of the time. Shoe designers are fashioning them in all colors and of the finest leathers to give you foot flattery.

Take advantage of these styles. They're your best insurance for foot beauty—and a walk that wins with lithesome, gliding grace!

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Luke Paper Mill Safety Records Get Top Praise

"Enthusiasm" Cuts Lost-Time Injuries

"Safety with enthusiasm", the formula at West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke has come in for more praise in the industrial safety and housekeeping magazine "Occupational Hazards."

For several years, the magazine says, the company's safety record offered very little to brag about. In 1946, an average of 18.4 lost-time injuries occurred for every million man hours. The record previously had been better, averaging 15 to 16.

The tide has turned, however. In 1951 the frequency rate was 5.08 and in the first six months of 1952 dropped to 3.6.

The magazine says much of the credit goes to John J. Long, Cumberland's commissioner of police and fire and the plant's safety and plant protection director. When he went to work in 1947 to improve the record, he emphasized the three E's — education, engineering and enthusiasm, the magazine continues. The emphasis was on enthusiasm.

The report goes on to explain the plant set up which has been the subject of local and national articles previously, starting with the 12-member mill safety committee at top management level, headed by the general manager, A. M. Kaiser.

From this grew a campaign to make enthusiasm contagious and safety work extended even into the home of the worker with wives and children taking part. A direct mail campaign is conducted for wives and mothers. Safety slogans are put into each worker's pay envelope. This enthusiasm, meanwhile has spread to a community basis extending over ten nearby villages and towns where the Luke plant's 1,600 employes live.

Safety rallies further stress the point that the program is something to be observed all hours of the day. These include meetings with community officials and volunteer fire companies are assisted in training.

The report added one of the reasons for the off-the-job safety program is that there are eight accidents at home to one in the mill.

Every new employe is trained in safety before he is permitted to start work. The best equipment is provided.

Long emphasizes, the article says, that the "protection of the company's manpower comes first. Economic considerations follow."

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Humility Is A Dangerous Thing

Of all the rich beautiful malarkey that spilled forth over the departure of a singer and a bandleader from the domain — there seems to be no other word for it — of Arthur Godfrey, the most nourishing was Arthur's lecture on humility. Humility flourishes on the Godfrey show like underbrush in the jungle and, when under the white hot klieg lights, it withers and dies, Arthur gets unhappy.

John Crosby

Julius La Rosa had lost his humility, said Godfrey mournfully. "Archie Bleyer lost his humility, too," he added. "I'll know if he gets it back. I'll know by the expression on his face." As this is written, there is no indication that Mr. Bleyer plans to rearrange his face to suit Mr. Godfrey. A statement like that is hardly calculated to bring out the humility in a man's face, anyhow. The response is more likely to be the other way around; the expression on the victim's face is likely to assume an imperious hauteur, totally unsuitable for a member of "all the little Godfreys."

I had no idea — and I'm sure you didn't either — that Godfrey was such an expert on humility. In fact, of all the people in the world I'd pick as being least aware of the meaning of humility, Godfrey is way up at the top of the list, jostling Jackie Gleason and Milton Berle. Humility is defined in my dictionary as lowliness, meekness, modesty, mildness — all qualities which Godfrey, of course, exemplifies.

"Humility, yet," said my friend Mitch, the bartender, awed. "They got everything on that show — singers and dancers and jokes and Mr. Godfrey scratching his left ear. Now they got humility, too. What else can a man ask of a performer except maybe some talent and, after all, you can't expect everything?"

"He plays a hell of a ukelele," I pointed out.

"With humility yet," declared Mitch enthusiastically. "Ain't just everyone can play a uke with humility. In fact, now that I bring it up, I don't think I know any other humble ukelele players. They're a proud lot, them uke players."

At the height of the storm, I tuned in Mr. Godfrey to listen to some humble ukelele playing on "Arthur Godfrey and His Friends." The afternoon papers had given Mr. Godfrey what for that day and the great man was apparently smarting from his wounds. The theme was friendship and Mr. Godfrey beat it like a gong.

He introduced Frank Parker and Marion Marlowe as "two of the sweetest people you ever knew." Then he introduced the Mariners as "four of the grandest guys you'll ever know." Presently along came the McGuire sisters who were "three of the loveliest girls I've ever known."

Then he got all choked up about what great people all these great people were and made a speech: "I pick my people for this show for a certain wonderful quality that you see in these faces." He loved to have them in his home, he said, and was fairly confident we'd like to have them in ours. "Those who are the great ones are the ones who stay with me — and I'm very proud of the McGuire sisters." (Who haven't been with him very long.)

It was a fine speech. Loyalty and all that sort of thing, you know.

SIGNAL MEANS NOTHING

THERE ARE times when an apparent signal by your partner means nothing. One of those occasions exists when he is a newcomer to the game who can not be expected to know anything yet about such things as "encouraging" and "discouraging" cards. Maybe you can be pardoned for considering that a card clearly higher-than-necessary from him is an indication he likes a certain suit. But you can hardly pay any attention to a low discard he makes. It may merely be the card he feels he can best afford to throw away.

All of these chaps were rated by one another as pretty good players, excepting East, who was a relative newcomer to bridge. It happened that West was a bit miffed to draw him as a partner for the opening rubber of the evening. But, knowing East to be less experienced than the others, he had no excuse for what he later did.

West began with a queer lead, undoubtedly the worst suit of all to open, to judge from the bidding, his spade 3. South won that with the Q and led the diamond J. West, having seen the dummy with its club shortage, decided to prevent ruffing there, so came right in with the diamond A and laid down the heart K and A, then led the 2. That delighted South, who now was able to use spades and diamonds to get more than all the club discards he needed, thus making his contract.

West thereupon got off the beam, by criticizing East about his use of clubs. First, he said, East should have bid the long clubs over North's 1-Spade. If he had, West said that, following his two high trumps, he would have led a club to the A for the setting trick. Then he censured East for discarding the club 4 and 6 on trumps. Those "discouraging cards," he declared, kept him from leading a club, whereas a high club discard would have caused him to lead one.

North and South then chimed in, defending East and saying he had no chance to learn about signals. Furthermore, since West could see the dummy, with the certainty of discards on spades and diamonds, the only chance for the setter was in clubs.

Humility Is A Dangerous Thing

Of all the rich beautiful malarkey that spilled forth over the departure of a singer and a bandleader from the domain — there seems to be no other word for it — of Arthur Godfrey, the most nourishing was Arthur's lecture on humility. Humility flourishes on the Godfrey show like underbrush in the jungle and, when under the white hot klieg lights, it withers and dies, Arthur gets unhappy.

John Crosby

Julius La Rosa had lost his humility, said Godfrey mournfully. "Archie Bleyer lost his humility, too," he added. "I'll know if he gets it back. I'll know by the expression on his face." As this is written, there is no indication that Mr. Bleyer plans to rearrange his face to suit Mr. Godfrey. A statement like that is hardly calculated to bring out the humility in a man's face, anyhow. The response is more likely to be the other way around; the expression on the victim's face is likely to assume an imperious hauteur, totally unsuitable for a member of "all the little Godfreys."

I had no idea — and I'm sure you didn't either — that Godfrey was such an expert on humility. In fact, of all the people in the world I'd pick as being least aware of the meaning of humility, Godfrey is way up at the top of the list, jostling Jackie Gleason and Milton Berle. Humility is defined in my dictionary as lowliness, meekness, modesty, mildness — all qualities which Godfrey, of course, exemplifies.

"Humility, yet," said my friend Mitch, the bartender, awed. "They got everything on that show — singers and dancers and jokes and Mr. Godfrey scratching his left ear. Now they got humility, too. What else can a man ask of a performer except maybe some talent and, after all, you can't expect everything?"

"He plays a hell of a ukelele," I pointed out.

"With humility yet," declared Mitch enthusiastically. "Ain't just everyone can play a uke with humility. In fact, now that I bring it up, I don't think I know any other humble ukelele players. They're a proud lot, them uke players."

At the height of the storm, I tuned in Mr. Godfrey to listen to some humble ukelele playing on "Arthur Godfrey and His Friends." The afternoon papers had given Mr. Godfrey what for that day and the great man was apparently smarting from his wounds. The theme was friendship and Mr. Godfrey beat it like a gong.

He introduced Frank Parker and Marion Marlowe as "two of the sweetest people you ever knew." Then he introduced the Mariners as "four of the grandest guys you'll ever know." Presently along came the McGuire sisters who were "three of the loveliest girls I've ever known."

Then he got all choked up about what great people all these great people were and made a speech: "I pick my people for this show for a certain wonderful quality that you see in these faces." He loved to have them in his home, he said, and was fairly confident we'd like to have them in ours. "Those who are the great ones are the ones who stay with me — and I'm very proud of the McGuire sisters." (Who haven't been with him very long.)

It was a fine speech. Loyalty and all that sort of thing, you know.

Card of Thanks

We are taking this method to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our loving little daughter and sister, Mary Alice Walters of Carlos.

We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. John Walters & Family

We take this means of publicly expressing sincere thanks to those of our friends and neighbors who were so sympathetic and helpful during the illness and following the death of our beloved wife and mother, Elsie C. Blubaugh. We also wish to thank the minister, Rev. B. F. Hartman for his comforting words, those who sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

We are taking this method to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our loving little daughter and sister, Mary Alice Walters of Carlos.

We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. John Walters & Family

We take this means of publicly expressing sincere thanks to those of our friends and neighbors who were so sympathetic and helpful during the illness and following the death of our beloved wife and mother, Elsie C. Stock Market Drops Lower For Second Straight Time

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—The stock market swung lower today for the second straight time without developing any evidence of undue selling pressure.

Steels and motors were steady to higher early in the day, and they held to the gains doggedly. At the close both were mixed as groups without being depressed. Oils also did rather well.

Railroads were lower along with the aircrafts, rubbers, and most coppers. Utilities were down.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 50 cents, one of widest of the past five weeks. Most of that fall in the average, which closed at $105.90, came from the decline in the railroad component—70 cents. The industrials and utilities each were off 30 cents.

United Corp. was the day's most active issue unchanged at 5 with 47,400 shares traded including one block of 40,000 shares at 5. American Telephone was second up ¾ at 153⅝, trading ex-rights. Mack Trucks, which has been active and higher recently, was third up 1¼ at 14½.

U. S. Steel, seventh, lost ¼ at 37¾ after moving narrowly all day. After the market closed directors declared the usual dividend of 75 cents and reported earnings for nine months at $5.66 a share as compared with $2.96 last year.

Radio And Television

Until you remember that no one has exactly deserted Godfrey. La Rosa and Bleyer — and before them Bill Lawrence and quite a few others — have been fired. They'd all have liked to have stayed with Godfrey and been among "the great ones," too, but they got tossed out on their ears.

For lack of humility whose antonym — again referring to the dictionary — is arrogance. Gee, I can remember way back when Fred Allen called Godfrey "the Huck Finn of radio," when — I found myself writing way back in 1946 — his show was "as shapeless as a scrambled egg, as informal as a naked child." In those days, he was (I wrote) like a small boy roaming down a dusty road with nothing on his mind but the joy of living."

But that was long ago, before all that humility crept into the act.

Stock Market Drops Lower For Second Straight Time

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—The stock market swung lower today for the second straight time without developing any evidence of undue selling pressure.

Steels and motors were steady to higher early in the day, and they held to the gains doggedly. At the close both were mixed as groups without being depressed. Oils also did rather well.

Railroads were lower along with the aircrafts, rubbers, and most coppers. Utilities were down.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 50 cents, one of widest of the past five weeks. Most of that fall in the average, which closed at $105.90, came from the decline in the railroad component—70 cents. The industrials and utilities each were off 30 cents.

United Corp. was the day's most active issue unchanged at 5 with 47,400 shares traded including one block of 40,000 shares at 5. American Telephone was second up ¾ at 153⅝, trading ex-rights. Mack Trucks, which has been active and higher recently, was third up 1¼ at 14½.

U. S. Steel, seventh, lost ¼ at 37¾ after moving narrowly all day. After the market closed directors declared the usual dividend of 75 cents and reported earnings for nine months at $5.66 a share as compared with $2.96 last year.

Radio And Television

Until you remember that no one has exactly deserted Godfrey. La Rosa and Bleyer — and before them Bill Lawrence and quite a few others — have been fired. They'd all have liked to have stayed with Godfrey and been among "the great ones," too, but they got tossed out on their ears.

For lack of humility whose antonym — again referring to the dictionary — is arrogance. Gee, I can remember way back when Fred Allen called Godfrey "the Huck Finn of radio," when — I found myself writing way back in 1946 — his show was "as shapeless as a scrambled egg, as informal as a naked child." In those days, he was (I wrote) like a small boy roaming down a dusty road with nothing on his mind but the joy of living."

But that was long ago, before all that humility crept into the act.

Election Board Will Create New Precinct

District 13 To Get New Polling Place

A new precinct in Election District No. 13, serving the Mt. Savage area, was created last night by the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors but the change will not become effective until the general election of November 1954.

The change, which would form a new precinct, 13-3, was approved on a motion of William A. Wilson, board chairman, seconded by Victor M. Hebb, the other Republican member of the board. Matthew J. Mullaney, the board's Democratic member, refrained from voting.

East Of Newtown

Exact boundaries of the new precinct will be determined later. In general, however, it will encompass the area east of Newtown Bridge to the eastern limit of the district, between Barrelville and Corriganville.

At first the board discussed the possibility of consolidating Districts 13-1 A-J and 13-1 KZ in a single precinct and transferring the polling officials who have been working at 13-1 K-Z to the new 13-3 precinct. Board members decided this would be unwise because it would violate a policy which the board adopted last year of having polling officials live in the precinct where they work.

Because the primary election will come in June, which will still be in the current fiscal year, the board will be unable to find money in its budget for the creation of the new precinct before that election. It will be included in the next budget.

Mrs. Lester B. Reed, wife of the member of the House of Delegates from the Mt. Savage area, was the only citizen to speak in behalf of the change. She said it is unfair to make those people living between Newtown and Corriganville travel all the way to Mt. Savage to vote.

Wide Area

Although the new precinct will have a comparatively small number of voters it will cover a sizeable area. It has been estimated under the new setup 13-3 will have about 235 voters out of 1,300 in the entire district. Other precincts will have more voters. They include 13-1, A-J, 249; 13-1, K-Z, 296; 13-2, 520.

Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar, reported to the board that some 19,041 registration cards have been mailed out, approaching 50 per cent of the 42,000 registered voters. About 200 persons who have moved since they registered have informed the registrars of their changed addresses after receiving cards.

Wilson stated that he and John M. Robb, attorney to the board, attended a meeting of the Legislative Council in Baltimore at which proposed election law changes were discussed.

Because no citizens from Election Districts 7 and 8 appeared before the board to endorse proposed changes in those two districts, the board decided to drop the plans.

Civic Theatre To Name Casts For Two Plays

Dramatic Troupe Has 34 Members

Casting of the first plays planned by the Cumberland Civic Theatre will get under way today at 7:30 p. m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

The plays are "Detective Story," a three-act play by Sidney Kingsley, and "Ring Around Elizabeth," a three-act comedy written by Charl Armstrong.

Pence said both plays will be cast at the same time. Actors in the first production will serve as the stage crew for the second play.

Has 34 Members

Membership in the club, which was formed recently, has increased to 34, Pence said, and more members are needed.

The dramatic experience of the group varies considerably. Some of those who have already enrolled have played leading roles in outstanding amateur plays and a number have been active in Little Theatre groups.

Others have had experience in high school and college dramatics, and a number have had no previous experience but have always wanted an opportunity to take part in dramatics.

Several other members of the troupe, Pence said, are not interested in acting but only in staging and other technical aspects of the theatre.

The casting will be in charge of Harold C. Wickard, director.

Is Rec Activity

Pence said the Recreation Department is offering dramatics as a recreational activity, stressing that experience is not necessary for membership. The idea, he said, is to give an opportunity to all those interested in dramatics.

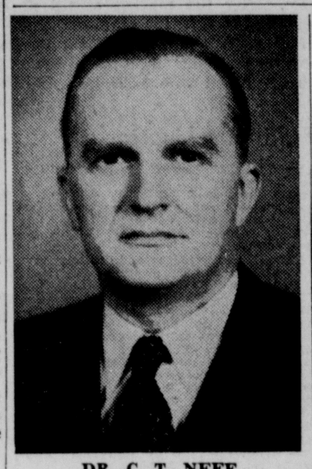

The department, he added, is chiefly interested in adults joining the club, since most high school students have had an opportunity to take part in school dramatics.

If enough high school students are interested it cannot find dramatic opportunities in school, a junior dramatic class could be offered, he added.

Farewell Party Is Held

A farewell party was held yesterday afternoon in the Court Room of the Post Office in honor of Alvin R. Beavers, 122 Independence Street, who has been in charge of the concession stand at the Post Office since October 1946. He and his wife plan to move to Florida to reside with their son, who is in the ministry. Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, presented Beavers with a purse on behalf of Post Office employes and personnel of other offices in the building. Shown above (left to right) are Conlon, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin R. Beavers, Rev. and Mrs. Richard L. Beavers and daughter, Carol Jean, of Fort Pierce, Fla., and Miss Nina Bosley, a sister of Mrs. Alvin Beavers. A large number of friends attended the party.

Funeral Planned Tomorrow For Dr. C. T. Neff

WVU Vice President Native Of Piedmont

A funeral service for Dr. Charles Thompson (Ted) Neff, 54, vice president of West Virginia University and secretary of its Board of Governors since 1927, who died in Morgantown, W. Va., yesterday, will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. in the Davidson Funeral Home in Morgantown.

Rev. Joseph C. Gluck, director of student affairs at the University, will officiate and interment will be in the East Oak Grove Mausoleum, Morgantown. The body is at the funeral home.

Native Of Piedmont

Dr. Neff was a native of Piedmont, W. Va., and later served as superintendent of schools there. He was born February 4, 1899, a son of Mrs. Lena D. Neff, who has resided with her son in recent years, and the late Charles T. Neff.

Dr. Neff first complained of a throat irritation following lunch last Saturday but attended the West Virginia-V. M. I. game that afternoon. He remained at home Sunday and Monday after consulting his physician, but his condition was not regarded as serious and he had been talking with his wife a few minutes before his death.

Dr. Neff was a graduate of Piedmont High where he starred in basketball and other sports. He was graduated from West Virginia University in 1921 with a degree of bachelor of arts, majoring in chemistry. He served in the Army during World War I and began his teaching career as principal at Beryl High in his native Mineral county. Then, in 1922, he became superintendent of schools at Piedmont — a position he held for five years until 1927 when he was appointed secretary of the Board of Governors at West Virginia U. following creation of the board by the state legislature.

Was Acting President

In 1934, Dr. Neff was given the additional duties of university comptroller. During the school year 1945-46, the interim between the university presidencies of Dr. Charles E. Lawall and Dr. Irvin Stewart, he served as acting president, meanwhile retaining his other duties.

Surviving, in addition to his mother, are his widow, the former Inez Davis, of Morgantown, and a sister, Mrs. Marguerite Day, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Special Education Supervisor To Visit

Miss Geneva Faith Ely, supervisor of special education for the State Department of Education, will be in Cumberland today to confer with Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster about the special education program conducted here.

There has been no supervisor of special education in the county schools here since Dr. Ralph E. Kessler left in mid-September to take a similar post in Baltimore County. The man who had accepted the appointment as Dr. Kessler's successor later changed his mind.

Sales Tax Bill In County Hits $818,576 Mark

Receipts In State Total $31,975,296

Retail Sales and Use Tax collections totaled $818,576.12 in Allegany County during the fiscal year which ended June 30, according to J. Millard Tawes, state comptroller.

This placed Allegany County ninth in the state and represents 2.59 per cent of all of the Sales and Use Taxes collected in Maryland in fiscal 1953.

The food and beverage industry of the county collected $124,204, a decrease of $21,303; apparel, $106,330, down $7,436 over 1952; general merchandise, $222,743, up $8,764; automotive, $65,946, up $5,753; furniture and appliances $98,458, up $11,362; lumber, builders and contractors, $58,770, down $2,415; utilities and transportation, $76,687, up $6,020, and miscellaneous, $65,438, up $874.

Hit New High

Tawes today released a detailed report covering final statistics on Retail Sales and Use Tax collections for 1953. According to Tawes, receipts of $31,975,296.43 established a new high since the adoption of these taxes in July, 1947, and represented an increase of $2,382,170.69, or 8.05 per cent over the $29,593,125.74 collected during the preceding fiscal year.

The top five counties producing highest revenues were: Baltimore County, $2,730,256; Montgomery County, $2,071,665; Prince George's County, $1,255,566; Washington County, $997,498; and Anne Arundel County, $918,575.

Collections from District of Columbia merchants totalled $1,165,961, and other out-of-state vendors brought in $853,594.

Stores Show Gains

Under a favorable business climate all segments of business participated in the rise of receipts, with the General Merchandise group, which includes the department stores, showing the largest gain dollarwise. Ranked in the order of their productivity, collection from various categories of business were as follows:

General Merchandise group, $9,567,670; Building Materials and Contractors, $4,625,874; Miscellaneous Groups, $3,971,235; Food and Beverage Group, $3,210,273; Furniture and Appliance Group, $3,115,356; Apparel Group, $2,628,888; Utilities and Transportation Group, $2,502,526; Automotive and Oil Companies, $2,353,474.

Tawes pointed out that Retail Sales and Use Tax collections remain the leading source of revenue for the State's General Fund, out of which the principal expenditure supports Public Schools and other educational purposes.

Trial Magistrate's Judgment Reversed

A $125 judgment against Clarence F. Fulk, 532 Cumberland Street, was reversed yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Court when the appellee, the Cumberland Rifle Club, failed to send a representative into court to answer the call.

The club had claimed that Fulk caused $251.60 damage to its rifle range at Fairgo last December. Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason entered a judgment for the club for $125 when he heard the case in July. Fulk appealed.

Attorney William L. Wilson Jr. was in Circuit Court yesterday representing Fulk but the club was not represented by counsel. Judge Harris also stipulated that the club pay the $9.65 court costs.

Watch, Reported Stolen, Turns Up In Owner's Home

A local resident certainly must have had a "red face" yesterday after a watch he said had been taken from him by a hotel employe turned up at his own home.

City Police Detective Leo P. Law said the West Side resident registered at a local hote Monday night.

Yesterday, he went to Law and reported his wrist watch, valued at $195, had been taken. He blamed an employe of the hotel.

A search for the timepiece got under way immediately, Law said. The hotel room was given a going-over and the employe was questioned. The resident's car also was searched. The missing watch finally turned up when his home was searched.

Jurors Support Defendants In Ejectment Case

With that negative answer to the single issue of the case, a jury in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday afternoon ended a two-day trial of an ejectment suit after deliberating about 40 minutes. Edwin W. Dilger was foreman of the jury, which included six men and six women.

Seeks Possession

Seeking to regain possession of between seven and eight acres between Town Creek and Pack Horse Road, not far from Uhl Highway, Smith had brought the ejectment suit against John W. Ridenbaugh and Hazel Ridenbaugh, his wife; Charles A. Keech and Vivian C. Keech, his wife, and Carl F. Decker.

Mr. and Mrs. Keech and Decker had paid the Ridenbaughs $1,000 for a little over three acres of the land in dispute in 1949 and had spent more than $2,500 for materials in building a summer cottage on the property. The Ridenbaughs had bought the property in 1945.

After Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris had delivered instructions to the jury yesterday afternoon opposing attorneys spent about an hour in closing arguments.

Closing Argument

Thomas N. Berry, who with Clarence Lippel represented Smith, summarized for the plaintiff. Thomas Lohr Richards, joined by Harold E. Naughton in representing the defendants, closed the defense argument.

Berry argued that Smith and his parents before him, Thomas and Lydia Smith, had honest and open possession of the land in dispute for over 20 years. The elder Smiths had allowed Leonard Crabtree to farm part of the land because they (the Smiths) were primarily interested in cutting timber from the land, Berry added.

Richards said that the jury would have to evaluate the work of two reputable surveyors and must decide which one was correct in his conclusions.

He note that Samuel T. Walker, one of the surveyors, was hired by Smith and started his survey from a point designated by Smith. On the other hand Phillip Hartig, the other surveyor, was court-appointed to resurvey the tract. Richards added.

He also called attention to testimony of a number of neighbors of the property in dispute who said that they thought the land belonged to Leonard Crabtree.

Court attaches noted that costs in the suit total $634.46, for which Smith is liable as the loser in the case. Included is $558.71 as surveyor's costs.

Rec Board To Meet

The City Recreation Board will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Mayor's Office in City Hall.

Rain In District Brings Halt To Current Drought

Temporary Relief Cited In Forest Fire Danger

And the weatherman promised more rain last night and today in the area. The first real rain in over a month fell about noon yesterday with intermittent showers during the afternoon. Lightening flashed over the city late last night.

Forestry employes continued to patrol certain counties of West Virginia where fires had been fought. Two were located in Morgan County, one in Pendleton County and one in the Elk Garden section of Mineral County.

Showers Are General

The rain and fog aided foresters in combatting a 15-acre forest fire, the biggest of the season in Central Maryland, which was being fought in the Mt. Lena section of Washington County.

A spokesman for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad last night said the temperature at Altamont and points west was about 56 degrees with overcast skies. Intermittent rain was reported in that section as well as east of Cumberland where the mercury registered 60 degrees.

The skies were overcast last night and rain fell during the afternoon along the route of the Western Maryland Railway, according to a spokesman who said temperatures ranged from 52 to 60 degrees.

Rain Totals .09 Inch

September 19 through 21 Golden said .26 inch fell in Cumberland and since then .07 and .05 inch fell on different days.

The high temperature yesterday was 57 degrees, with a low reading of 42 degrees. At 8 p. m. the thermometer registered 54 degrees, and humidity at 6 p. m. was 100 per cent.

Salvation Army Kickoff Dinner Opens Campaign

Advance Gifts Group Reports $11,195.75

The classified section of the Salvation Army fund campaign held its kickoff dinner last night at the Citadel and officially opened its drive with a goal of $5,500.

The advance gifts report last night totaled $11,195.75 well on the way to a goal of $14,000. Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the Army's Advisory Board, said the advance gifts section expects to reach its goal by next week.

Heads of the Army's drive addressed three groups of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad workers yesterday, and the approximately 800 men pledged support of the campaign.

Over 100 Workers

Ort pointed out that 100 volunteer workers are assisting with the current fund drive, and last night members of the advance gifts section offered their help in soliciting for the classified section.

After being presented by Adolf Blunk, general chairman of the campaign, Ort told the approximately 30 persons present he was encouraged and enthusiastic with the results of the campaign thus far.

He pointed out that many of the advance gifts workers had not reported yet, and said he was confident their goal would be met soon. He told the classified committee he was optimistic and that the fund drive goal of $19,500 would be met.

Ort thanked members of the advance gifts committee for their fine work and congratulated those who have already topped their individual goals.

Rev. Seth C. Morrow, an Advisory Board member, in his pep talk to the volunteer workers, pointed to the outstanding and human services of the Salvation Army, and said they should be proud to be helping those people devoted to the cause of humanity."

A visitor to last night's meeting was Major Paul Thronburg, secretary for the Maryland and West Virginia Division of the Salvation Army, who praised the workers as a "winning team" for the Army.

Meeting Tuesday

Major Thronburg also talked of his visit to the spot in London where the Salvation Army was born, which today operates in 96 countries of the world.

Blunk in his talk at the dinner compared the Salvation Army to Boys' Town which takes youngsters under its wing while they are young and before they can reach skid row.

The final speaker, Frank Carpenter, an Advisory Board member, explained some of the work done by the Army and stressed the fact that the Army not only feeds the hungry body but also the spiritual body.

The next meeting of the classified section will be held next Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. at the Citadel.

Ejector Station Passes Tests

The Bedford-Frederick Street sewage ejector station passed its final tests yesterday, according to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner.

Designed by Robert T. Regester, Baltimore consulting engineer, the station contains two 150-gallon pots. The contents of the containers are alternately expelled by compressed air into connecting force mains.

The chief advantage of the design, officials said, is that it cannot be clogged, as would a conventional pump.

Election Board Will Create New Precinct

District 13 To Get New Polling Place

A new precinct in Election District No. 13, serving the Mt. Savage area, was created last night by the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors but the change will not become effective until the general election of November 1954.

The change, which would form a new precinct, 13-3, was approved on a motion of William A. Wilson, board chairman, seconded by Victor M. Hebb, the other Republican member of the board. Matthew J. Mullaney, the board's Democratic member, refrained from voting.

East Of Newtown

Exact boundaries of the new precinct will be determined later. In general, however, it will encompass the area east of Newtown Bridge to the eastern limit of the district, between Barrelville and Corriganville.

At first the board discussed the possibility of consolidating Districts 13-1 A-J and 13-1 KZ in a single precinct and transferring the polling officials who have been working at 13-1 K-Z to the new 13-3 precinct. Board members decided this would be unwise because it would violate a policy which the board adopted last year of having polling officials live in the precinct where they work.

Because the primary election will come in June, which will still be in the current fiscal year, the board will be unable to find money in its budget for the creation of the new precinct before that election. It will be included in the next budget.

Mrs. Lester B. Reed, wife of the member of the House of Delegates from the Mt. Savage area, was the only citizen to speak in behalf of the change. She said it is unfair to make those people living between Newtown and Corriganville travel all the way to Mt. Savage to vote.

Wide Area

Although the new precinct will have a comparatively small number of voters it will cover a sizeable area. It has been estimated under the new setup 13-3 will have about 235 voters out of 1,300 in the entire district. Other precincts will have more voters. They include 13-1, A-J, 249; 13-1, K-Z, 296; 13-2, 520.

Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar, reported to the board that some 19,041 registration cards have been mailed out, approaching 50 per cent of the 42,000 registered voters. About 200 persons who have moved since they registered have informed the registrars of their changed addresses after receiving cards.

Wilson stated that he and John M. Robb, attorney to the board, attended a meeting of the Legislative Council in Baltimore at which proposed election law changes were discussed.

Because no citizens from Election Districts 7 and 8 appeared before the board to endorse proposed changes in those two districts, the board decided to drop the plans.

Civic Theatre To Name Casts For Two Plays

Dramatic Troupe Has 34 Members

Casting of the first plays planned by the Cumberland Civic Theatre will get under way today at 7:30 p. m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

The plays are "Detective Story," a three-act play by Sidney Kingsley, and "Ring Around Elizabeth," a three-act comedy written by Charl Armstrong.

Pence said both plays will be cast at the same time. Actors in the first production will serve as the stage crew for the second play.

Has 34 Members

Membership in the club, which was formed recently, has increased to 34, Pence said, and more members are needed.

The dramatic experience of the group varies considerably. Some of those who have already enrolled have played leading roles in outstanding amateur plays and a number have been active in Little Theatre groups.

Others have had experience in high school and college dramatics, and a number have had no previous experience but have always wanted an opportunity to take part in dramatics.

Several other members of the troupe, Pence said, are not interested in acting but only in staging and other technical aspects of the theatre.

The casting will be in charge of Harold C. Wickard, director.

Is Rec Activity

Pence said the Recreation Department is offering dramatics as a recreational activity, stressing that experience is not necessary for membership. The idea, he said, is to give an opportunity to all those interested in dramatics.

The department, he added, is chiefly interested in adults joining the club, since most high school students have had an opportunity to take part in school dramatics.

If enough high school students are interested it cannot find dramatic opportunities in school, a junior dramatic class could be offered, he added.

DR. C. T. NEFF

Funeral Planned Tomorrow For Dr. C. T. Neff

WVU Vice President Native Of Piedmont

A funeral service for Dr. Charles Thompson (Ted) Neff, 54, vice president of West Virginia University and secretary of its Board of Governors since 1927, who died in Morgantown, W. Va., yesterday, will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. in the Davidson Funeral Home in Morgantown.

Rev. Joseph C. Gluck, director of student affairs at the University, will officiate and interment will be in the East Oak Grove Mausoleum, Morgantown. The body is at the funeral home.

Native Of Piedmont

Dr. Neff was a native of Piedmont, W. Va., and later served as superintendent of schools there. He was born February 4, 1899, a son of Mrs. Lena D. Neff, who has resided with her son in recent years, and the late Charles T. Neff.

Dr. Neff first complained of a throat irritation following lunch last Saturday but attended the West Virginia-V. M. I. game that afternoon. He remained at home Sunday and Monday after consulting his physician, but his condition was not regarded as serious and he had been talking with his wife a few minutes before his death.

Dr. Neff was a graduate of Piedmont High where he starred in basketball and other sports. He was graduated from West Virginia University in 1921 with a degree of bachelor of arts, majoring in chemistry. He served in the Army during World War I and began his teaching career as principal at Beryl High in his native Mineral county. Then, in 1922, he became superintendent of schools at Piedmont — a position he held for five years until 1927 when he was appointed secretary of the Board of Governors at West Virginia U. following creation of the board by the state legislature.

Was Acting President

In 1934, Dr. Neff was given the additional duties of university comptroller. During the school year 1945-46, the interim between the university presidencies of Dr. Charles E. Lawall and Dr. Irvin Stewart, he served as acting president, meanwhile retaining his other duties.

Sales Tax Bill In County Hits $818,576 Mark

Receipts In State Total $31,975,296

Retail Sales and Use Tax collections totaled $818,576.12 in Allegany County during the fiscal year which ended June 30, according to J. Millard Tawes, state comptroller.

This placed Allegany County ninth in the state and represents 2.59 per cent of all of the Sales and Use Taxes collected in Maryland in fiscal 1953.

It represents an increase of $1,619 over the 1952 Sales Tax total of $818,957.

The food and beverage industry of the county collected $124,204, a decrease of $21,303; apparel, $106,330, down $7,436 over 1952; general merchandise, $222,743, up $8,764; automotive, $65,946, up $5,753; furniture and appliances $98,458, up $11,362; lumber, builders and contractors, $58,770, down $2,415; utilities and transportation, $76,687, up $6,020, and miscellaneous, $65,438, up $874.

Hit New High

Tawes today released a detailed report covering final statistics on Retail Sales and Use Tax collections for 1953. According to Tawes, receipts of $31,975,296.43 established a new high since the adoption of these taxes in July, 1947, and represented an increase of $2,382,170.69, or 8.05 per cent over the $29,593,125.74 collected during the preceding fiscal year.

A total of 466,912 monthly returns were filed, or an increase of 3,682 over the preceding year's total of 463,230 returns.

Baltimore City continues to be the largest source of revenue, with collections of $16,323,680, or 51.05 per cent of the total.

The top five counties producing highest revenues were: Baltimore County, $2,730,256; Montgomery County, $2,071,665; Prince George's County, $1,255,566; Washington County, $997,498; and Anne Arundel County, $918,575.

Collections from District of Columbia merchants totalled $1,165,961, and other out-of-state vendors brought in $853,594.

Stores Show Gains

Under a favorable business climate all segments of business participated in the rise of receipts, with the General Merchandise group, which includes the department stores, showing the largest gain dollarwise. Ranked in the order of their productivity, collection from various categories of business were as follows:

General Merchandise group, $9,567,670; Building Materials and Contractors, $4,625,874; Miscellaneous Groups, $3,971,235; Food and Beverage Group, $3,210,273; Furniture and Appliance Group, $3,115,356; Apparel Group, $2,628,888; Utilities and Transportation Group, $2,502,526; Automotive and Oil Companies, $2,353,474.

Tawes pointed out that Retail Sales and Use Tax collections remain the leading source of revenue for the State's General Fund, out of which the principal expenditure supports Public Schools and other educational purposes.

Trial Magistrate's Judgment Reversed

A $125 judgment against Clarence F. Fulk, 532 Cumberland Street, was reversed yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Court when the appellee, the Cumberland Rifle Club, failed to send a representative into court to answer the call.

The club had claimed that Fulk caused $251.60 damage to its rifle range at Fairgo last December. Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason entered a judgment for the club for $125 when he heard the case in July. Fulk appealed.

Attorney William L. Wilson Jr. was in Circuit Court yesterday representing Fulk but the club was not represented by counsel. Judge Harris also stipulated that the club pay the $9.65 court costs.

Watch, Reported Stolen, Turns Up In Owner's Home

A local resident certainly must have had a "red face" yesterday after a watch he said had been taken from him by a hotel employe turned up at his own home.

City Police Detective Leo P. Law said the West Side resident registered at a local hote Monday night.

Yesterday, he went to Law and reported his wrist watch, valued at $195, had been taken. He blamed an employe of the hotel.

A search for the timepiece got under way immediately, Law said. The hotel room was given a going-over and the employe was questioned. The resident's car also was searched. The missing watch finally turned up when his home was searched.

Jurors Support Defendants In Ejectment Case

Charles H. Smith does not own a disputed property along Town Creek east of Oldtown either by deed title or adverse possession.

With that negative answer to the single issue of the case, a jury in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday afternoon ended a two-day trial of an ejectment suit after deliberating about 40 minutes. Edwin W. Dilger was foreman of the jury, which included six men and six women.

Seeks Possession

Seeking to regain possession of between seven and eight acres between Town Creek and Pack Horse Road, not far from Uhl Highway, Smith had brought the ejectment suit against John W. Ridenbaugh and Hazel Ridenbaugh, his wife; Charles A. Keech and Vivian C. Keech, his wife, and Carl F. Decker.

Mr. and Mrs. Keech and Decker had paid the Ridenbaughs $1,000 for a little over three acres of the land in dispute in 1949 and had spent more than $2,500 for materials in building a summer cottage on the property. The Ridenbaughs had bought the property in 1945.

After Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris had delivered instructions to the jury yesterday afternoon opposing attorneys spent about an hour in closing arguments.

Closing Argument

Thomas N. Berry, who with Clarence Lippel represented Smith, summarized for the plaintiff. Thomas Lohr Richards, joined by Harold E. Naughton in representing the defendants, closed the defense argument.

Berry argued that Smith and his parents before him, Thomas and Lydia Smith, had honest and open possession of the land in dispute for over 20 years. The elder Smiths had allowed Leonard Crabtree to farm part of the land because they (the Smiths) were primarily interested in cutting timber from the land, Berry added.

Richards said that the jury would have to evaluate the work of two reputable surveyors and must decide which one was correct in his conclusions.

He note that Samuel T. Walker, one of the surveyors, was hired by Smith and started his survey from a point designated by Smith. On the other hand Phillip Hartig, the other surveyor, was court-appointed to resurvey the tract, Richards added.

He also called attention to testimony of a number of neighbors of the property in dispute who said that they thought the land belonged to Leonard Crabtree.

Court attaches noted that costs in the suit total $634.46, for which Smith is liable as the loser in the case. Included is $558.71 as surveyor's costs.

Rain In District Brings Halt To Current Drought

Temporary Relief Cited In Forest Fire Danger

Welcome rains yesterday afternoon brought a halt to the current drought and eased the danger of destructive forest fires in the Tri-State area.

And the weatherman promised more rain last night and today in the area. The first real rain in over a month fell about noon yesterday with intermittent showers during the afternoon. Lightening flashed over the city late last night.

Forestry employes continued to patrol certain counties of West Virginia where fires had been fought. Two were located in Morgan County, one in Pendleton County and one in the Elk Garden section of Mineral County.

Showers Are General

Tilden Norris, district forester at Romney, said rain fell throughout his district yesterday with heavier showers in Pendleton, Grant and Hardy counties.

District Forester William H. Johnson was in Washington County yesterday afternoon and evening directing fire-fighting in that area.

The rain and fog aided foresters in combatting a 15-acre forest fire, the biggest of the season in Central Maryland, which was being fought in the Mt. Lena section of Washington County.

A spokesman for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad last night said the temperature at Altamont and points west was about 56 degrees with overcast skies. Intermittent rain was reported in that section as well as east of Cumberland where the mercury registered 60 degrees.

The skies were overcast last night and rain fell during the afternoon along the route of the Western Maryland Railway, according to a spokesman who said temperatures ranged from 52 to 60 degrees.

Rain Totals .09 Inch

Robert R. Golden, superintendent of Constitution Park and official weather observer, last night gave an official reading of .09 inch of rain fall during the day.

September 19 through 21 Golden said .26 inch fell in Cumberland and since then .07 and .05 inch fell on different days.

The high temperature yesterday was 57 degrees, with a low reading of 42 degrees. At 8 p. m. the thermometer registered 54 degrees, and humidity at 6 p. m. was 100 per cent.

Salvation Army Kickoff Dinner Opens Campaign

Advance Gifts Group Reports $11,195.75

The classified section of the Salvation Army fund campaign held its kickoff dinner last night at the Citadel and officially opened its drive with a goal of $5,500.

The advance gifts report last night totaled $11,195.75 well on the way to a goal of $14,000. Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the Army's Advisory Board, said the advance gifts section expects to reach its goal by next week.

Heads of the Army's drive addressed three groups of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad workers yesterday, and the approximately 800 men pledged support of the campaign.

Over 100 Workers

Ort pointed out that 100 volunteer workers are assisting with the current fund drive, and last night members of the advance gifts section offered their help in soliciting for the classified section.

After being presented by Adolf Blunk, general chairman of the campaign, Ort told the approximately 30 persons present he was encouraged and enthusiastic with the results of the campaign thus far.

He pointed out that many of the advance gifts workers had not reported yet, and said he was confident their goal would be met soon. He told the classified committee he was optimistic and that the fund drive goal of $19,500 would be met.

Ort thanked members of the advance gifts committee for their fine work and congratulated those who have already topped their individual goals.

Rev. Seth C. Morrow, an Advisory Board member, in his pep talk to the volunteer workers, pointed to the outstanding and human services of the Salvation Army, and said they should be proud to be helping those people devoted to the cause of humanity."

A visitor to last night's meeting was Major Paul Thronburg, secretary for the Maryland and West Virginia Division of the Salvation Army, who praised the workers as a "winning team" for the Army.

Meeting Tuesday

Major Thronburg also talked of his visit to the spot in London where the Salvation Army was born, which today operates in 96 countries of the world.

Blunk in his talk at the dinner compared the Salvation Army to Boys' Town which takes youngsters under its wing while they are young and before they can reach skid row.

The final speaker, Frank Carpenter, an Advisory Board member, explained some of the work done by the Army and stressed the fact that the Army not only feeds the hungry body but also the spiritual body.

Ejector Station Passes Tests

The Bedford-Frederick Street sewage ejector station passed its final tests yesterday, according to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner.

The equipment was tested by Engineering Department officials, aided by the Water Department, which provided water to run the station at capacity.

Designed by Robert T. Regester, Baltimore consulting engineer, the station contains two 150-gallon pots. The contents of the containers are alternately expelled by compressed air into connecting force mains.
